

MRS. ANNE STILLMAN ANNOUNCES SON BUD IS TO WED SERVANT

Daughter of Woodsman Heroine of Romance in Canadian Wilds.

CINDERELLA TO JOIN SOCIETY IN NEW YORK

Parents, Delighted, Buy Student $25,000 Ring for Bride From Backwoods.

Special to The Washington Post.

Grand Mere, Quebec, Oct. 6.—Into the golden circle of New York's millionaire society there stepped today a timid girl who had been a servant in the house of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stillman. She walked into the charmed circle, where she had been a domestic, as an equal and as the affianced bride to be of young James Stillman, son of the couple whose love affairs had held New York's interests for years.

It was Mrs. Anne Urquhart (Fifi Potter) Stillman herself who made the announcement. She made it in the fastnesses of her great summer estate here on the St. Maurice river. And she told the world of the love affair of her son, now a student at Princeton, with the approval of a woman whose own experiences had run the entire gamut of romance and of love.

It is Lena Wilson, 18, who comes, Cinderella-like, from a three-room shack in the shadow of the Stillman estates, to walk in marble halls with her kinspeople by marriage, the Henry P. Davisons, the William G. Rockefellers, the Percy A. Rockefellers and all of that ilk of gold-stamped aristocracy.

Young Stillman, better known as Bud than by his father's name, is a brother to Mrs. Davison, whose husband is the son of the late directing partner of J. P. Morgan & Co. Both of the Meadames Rockefeller are aunts. Only today in New York the announcement was given society of the coming-out party of Bud's cousin, Almira Rockefeller, slated as the most dashing of the season's debutantes.

Daughter of Woodsman. One must know a wild and interesting region to understand the setting of the romance of Bud and Lena. Up here where the St. Maurice winds its way through the timberlands, Mrs. Stillman had established at Grand Anse her fine estate. About her were few neighbors. They were hardy folk, timber cutters principally.

Into this land some years ago there came a Scot. He had married a Canadian girl. And Lena Wilson was born of this union. Two sisters and a brother, Johnnie Wilson, also belonged in the woodcutter's home. The home was a humble, three-room affair, located not far from the Stillman place. All the world knows that it was in this country that Mr. Stillman charged his wife with having found her own affinity in the person of an Indian guide.

And the same goodly audience is aware that, at the same time, the clandestine romance of Stillman and Flo Leeds was in the making, to the undoing of whatever claim Stillman might have on the divorce courts.

The multiplicity of lawsuits that followed these two events had been settled, Mr. and Mrs. Stillman had become reconciled and the past was the past, so far as they were concerned.

Girl Attracted Mistress. But all of the time that the heaven of love had been working its way through the courts, Lena Wilson, her sisters and her brother had been up at the big house working for its mistress. There were a score of other employes there and they performed their duties just as the others, drawn from the same countryside.

But Lena was a child apart. She attracted the attention of Anne Stillman, now Mrs. Davison, when she passed her summers at the camp. Mrs. Stillman wondered why Bud hadn't noticed such a nice little girl as Lena. Bud had. But Mrs. Stillman did not know it until she went last month to New York to shop.

Then Bud telegraphed her to buy a diamond engagement ring for Lena. This was the mother's first intimation of the attachment. And she hastened to buy the prettiest ring Fifth avenue afforded to seal a match that had her thorough approval. And as she told today of the purchase.

WOMAN IS ARRESTED IN DEATH OF SOLDIER

Says She Was With Ernest Johnson, Shot At Near Fort Myer.

BODY FOUND NEAR SPOT

Mystery surrounding the finding of the body of Private Edgar Miller, 18 years old, of the Third Cavalry, Fort Myer, in Arlington cemetery yesterday morning, with a bullet wound through the head, deepened last night.

Miss Marian Ethel Gray, 20 years old, 721 Eighth street northwest, who said she was accompanying Ernest Johnson, 1021 Ninth street northwest, when he received a mysterious bullet wound in the leg Monday night, was arrested last night by Headquarters Detective Ira Keck. She is being held for investigation.

Johnson, when questioned at Emergency hospital Monday night, said he was riding alone when he was shot. Later Miss Gray, after questioning by police, said she was with him when he was wounded. Johnson's motorcycle was found less than 50 feet from the spot where the body of Miller was discovered yesterday. The condition of the body indicated that he had been dead for about two days.

A 45-caliber revolver was found lying by the side of Miller yesterday. Dr. Joseph Larkin at Emergency hospital extracted a bullet, apparently from a 45-caliber revolver, from Johnson's leg last Monday.

Miller's body was discovered by stable men of Fort Myer. He had

Dantzig Hears Powers May End Its Liberty

(Special Cable Dispatch.) Dantzig, Oct. 6.—The Dantzig newspapers today publish reports from Berlin to the effect that during the recent negotiations between Foreign Ministers Stresemann and Briand, of Germany and France, respectively, the latter agreed to return Dantzig to Germany, providing Germany recompensed Poland. In return for France's agreement, Herr Stresemann is reported to have promised that the German government would use its influence with German-American citizens in connection with the French debt.

EXTRADITION OF HALL DETECTIVE UP TODAY

Doubted Smith Will Yield Di Martini Unless He Is Indicted.

Special to The Washington Post. Somerville, N. J., Oct. 6.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, will meet State Senator Alexander Simpson, of New Jersey, in New York tomorrow morning to consider the extradition of Felix Di Martini, private detective, wanted in New Jersey on a charge of being an accessory after the fact in the Hall-Mills murders. Di Martini, employed by Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall's counsel to protect the widow's interests, is out in $10,000 bail, following his arrest Saturday night.

The special prosecutor in the revived investigation of the killing of the Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, his choir singer, will be armed with a sheaf of affidavits when he appears before the governor.

O. W. Potter, of the State's legal department, said it was highly improbable the governor would grant extradition merely on the prosecutor's affidavit. It is customary, he said, to obtain an indictment by a grand jury before allowing extradition.

KING HAD NO HOPE OF METAL CASE FEE, DECLARES COUNSEL

Rand Holds Claim Passed 8 Days Too Late to Earn Commission.

DAUGHERTY-MILLER SUMMATION BEGINS

Defense Closes After Buckner Bars Records of King's Jury Testimony.

New York, Oct. 5 (By A. P.).—Harry M. Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller did not conspire against the government in September, 1921, for bribes promised to them from a fee paid to John T. King, because King had no expectation of receiving any fee at that time, William Rand asserted in his summation for Miller today.

The conspiracy case, in which Daugherty and Miller are charged with withholding their best services in permitting release of $7,000,000 impounded assets of the American Metal Co., reached the summation stage shortly before noon when the defense unexpectedly rested its case.

Rand spoke to the jury in defense of his client from 2:30 o'clock this afternoon until 5:30 and had not concluded when Judge Mack adjourned court until tomorrow. He will be followed by Max D. Steur, summing up for Daugherty, and by United States Attorney Buckner for the government. This may be completed tomorrow and Judge Mack will then charge the jury and give it the case. If necessary a Saturday session will be held to enable the trial, which has lasted five weeks, to be completed this week.

Claim Record Too Late.

Miller's counsel reached the climax of his afternoon's dissertation just before adjournment. Up to that time his remarks had been largely of a technical nature dealing with the transfer of stock between German and Swiss institutions. "If there was a conspiracy," he declared, when at last he came to the point of discussing his client's actions, "it fell through because the claim went through Daugherty's and Miller's offices eight days too late to earn a penny." Rand explained to the jury an arrangement between King and Richard Merton, German copper magnate, who came here to arrange release of the assets whereby King was to receive a fee of 5 per cent of the $7,000,000 if the claim was awarded by one date, 2½ per cent if it were not allowed until a specific later date, and nothing at all, beyond a retainer of $50,000 given him when the arrangement was made, if the claim did not go through before a later specified date.

The government has claimed that of his $441,000 promised King for successful completion of his work, some $150,000 was used as bribes to gain the defendant's approval.

Paid Fee Voluntarily.

As the claim did not go through until after the last date specified by Merton in his arrangement with King, the latter had no expectation,

9 Bodies Are Found After Mine Blast

Rockwood, Tenn., Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—Nine bodies had been recovered tonight from the Roane Iron Co.'s coal mine here, in which an explosion Monday trapped more than 30 miners, 3 miles beneath the mountainside.

The badly mangled bodies of three miners were brought to the surface late today by a rescue crew which had worked since early morning clearing a path to the scene of the explosion. Six bodies previously had been removed from the mine.

Governors to Attend Cotton Parley Oct. 13

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—Gov. Whitfield today set October 13 as the date for a conference of Southern governors and cotton men in Memphis to discuss plans concerning the present low price of cotton.

The governor said that "practically unanimous replies have been received from all the governors of the cotton-growing States, saying that they would hold a conference on the cotton situation."

MRS. WILSON GUEST OF QUEEN MARIE AT HER SUITE IN PARIS

War President's Widow Will Come to U. S. on Same Steamer.

PRINCESS BEATRICE CANCELS TRIP HERE

Royal Tourist Lunches With a Maharajah and Does More Shopping.

Paris, Oct. 5. (By A. P.).—Queen Marie of Roumania, who is busy shopping here in preparation for her forthcoming visit to the United States, today had tea in her suite at the Hotel Ritz with Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, the former "First Lady" of the United States. The two women first met a few weeks ago in Roumania, while Mrs. Wilson was on a tour of the Balkans. They will be shipmates aboard the Leviathan, on which Mrs. Wilson is returning to her home with her brother, Richard Bolling, who accompanied her on her European tour.

The dual task of being queen and a prospective American tourist at the same time kept Queen Marie on the go today. As soon as she had breakfast she started on another shopping tour to supplement her purchases of yesterday.

She then went to the Bois de Boulogne for luncheon as guest of the Maharajah of Kapurthala. The luncheon was so sumptuous and was served in such a long drawn out style that it was almost ten o'clock before her majesty, with her daughter, Princess Ileana, returned to the hotel. On her arrival at her suite she found a number of frocks, evening dresses and coats awaiting final inspection.

Again at Theater.

Tonight the queen again visited the theater, her choice being Jules Romains' "The Dictator," the newest offering of the fall dramatic season in Paris. The play is described as a conflict "Not between ideas and love, but between ideas and friendship." It has to do with kings, queens, dictators and other principals in modern European states.

Princess Ileana, accompanied her mother on all her excursions in and out of the hotel today, but young Prince Nicholas, the queen's son, again went "on his own." Unnoticed by the crowds, he paraded the Rue de la Paix in the autumn sunshine. This afternoon he strolled along the boulevards with a couple of his boy friends. Those who did recognize him noticed that the young Roumanian prince had a hole of considerable size in the heel of one of his socks. It afforded considerable amusement to some of his friends and a little chagrin to others.

Crowds Await Royalty.

All day long people of all sorts with nothing else to do wandered in and out of the lobby of the Ritz, hoping to catch a glimpse of European royalty.

HARDMAN IS WINNER IN GEORGIA RUN-OFF

Polls 246 County Unit Votes, Assuring Election in the November Ballot.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—Dr. L. G. Harman, of Commerce, Ga., will be Georgia's next governor, as was indicated tonight in face of incomplete and unofficial returns from today's Democratic gubernatorial run-off primary. Dr. Harman has polled 246 county unit votes, to 116 for his opponent, John N. Holder, State highway commissioner.

Two hundred and eight county unit votes were necessary for a choice.

Democratic nomination is equivalent to election in Georgia. Today's election was made necessary when no one candidate received a majority of the 414 county unit votes in the primary.

"PEACHES" BILLS STILL POURING IN ON BROWNING

Wealthy and Elderly Husband Has Received No Word From Her, He Says.

STAGE DEBUT EXPECTED

New York, Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—Edward W. Browning, 51-year-old wealthy real estate operator, is still receiving bills for clothes bought by his school-girl bride just before she left him, but he has received no word from the girl.

The latest bill, for $250, covering dresses which the 16-year-old wife bought and had charged to Browning, was received by him today. Last Saturday he had received bills for $6,000, representing frocks, wraps, silk stockings and other feminine apparel which were purchased on Friday by "Peaches," as Browning calls his wife.

"Peaches" has not yet said whether she was considering accepting an offer, reported to have been made from Chicago, to appear on the stage for $2,000 a week. Browning has insisted that their separation is only temporary.

Late this afternoon Browning's secretary said that "Peaches" had returned, presumably from New Jersey, to the home of her mother in West 157th street, Manhattan.

CARUSI DEMANDS Airing OF SCHOOL CONDITIONS

Education Board Member Tells Association Remedy Must Be Found.

PEYSER NEW PRESIDENT

It is high time the board of education is finding out what is wrong with District schools and who is to blame, Charles F. Carusi, member of the board, declared last night in an address before the Public School association in the board room of the District building.

There are certain conditions which have been and now are prevalent in the public schools and which must be corrected, Mr. Carusi declared. If school officials are to blame, they must remedy such conditions and if they can not, then it is up to the board of education to find some one who can, he stated.

Mr. Carusi declared that he was tired of the "meaningless" reports that are submitted to the board. "They mean nothing to me or any one else," he said. When the board of education wants to find out something definite about school conditions, it is up to local officials to give them a straightforward report, Mr. Carusi declared, adding that if they could not or would not, then it was up to the board to send to some city, if necessary, and get some one who could.

Congress gave the people of the District a school plant worth $40,000,000, Mr. Carusi declared. This plant, he said, is not being used to its fullest extent. There is an enormous field of educational facilities that are hardly touched, he added.

It is up to the board of education to find a practical use for every facility to the fullest extent, and they will, providing they have the support of the people in their efforts, Mr. Carusi declared.

Capt. Julius I. Peyer, former member of the board of education, was named to succeed James G. Yaden, retiring president of the school association.

Dry Law Prisoners Must Drink Water

Dover, Ohio, Oct. 6 (By A. P.). For every day they do not drink a gallon of water while they are in jail, a day will be added to the sentence of four men sentenced today by Mayor P. J. ## NEW YORK'S SLUGGERS LAUNCH FIRST ATTACK

St. Louis Fans Converted by Bambino's Achievements and Cheer Him to Echo.

By NORMAN W. BAXTER.

Sportsman's Park, St. Louis, Oct. 6.—Babe Ruth, the slumbering giant of the Yankee offense, aroused himself from his lethargy in the fourth game of the 1926 world's series here this afternoon, and in consequence the Cardinals were forced to take a beating such as they 38,825 supporters thought would never come to pass. With the Blistering Babe throwing his massive bat, loaded with three home runs—a new world's series record—into the contest, the entire New York battle array came to life. The Yankees got only fourteen hits, the same number as the Cardinals amassed. There were, however, twenty-seven total bases in the Yankee offensive and only sixteen in the bats which the Cardinals thrust into the fray. The score was 10 to 5.

Never in his world's series history has the Bambino had quite such a day as this one was. Officially he was credited with only three trips to the plate and on each occasion the rhythm of his swing and the power of his body drove the ball to the limits of what are called diamond perfection. Even in his circuit drives Ruth gave evidence that he was awakening from his sleep of hitting facility.

St. Louis Fans Cheer Bambino. His first home run took the shortest line between the plate and the crowding right field stand in Sportsman's park. The second was on a longer trajectory nearer centerfield than right. The third, the one which gained him entrance to baseball's hall of fame, was almost on a dead line from the batter's box to center field. It cleared the rather high retaining wall and nestled easily in the outstretched hands of an eager bleacher fan. According to the sages of the St. Louis press box it was the longest, hardest drive that any player had ever made here.

Not even the intense partisan enthusiasm with which this St. Louis audience supports the Cardinals could resist this marvelous display of batting ability. The stands cheered each mighty wallop to the echo and the sun gods in left field—bitter enders in their home town partially—raised the echoes as the Babe came out into their territory again after each of his magnificent drives.

But for the fact that the park was bordered with a human wall to its capacity and that all of the tinsel and other by-play of a world series was on hand, one might easily have supposed that the Yankee prince and clown was engaging in batting practice only.

Ruth Shows Way to Mates. Two of these smashes were obtained at the expense of young Plint Rhem, the right hander to whom Hornsby first entrusted the fate of today's game.

In each instance Rhem had disposed with ease the first two batters in the Yankee line-up. Moreover, in the first inning he had retired both Combs and Koenig on a called strike. But, each time along came Ruth and met the first ball pitched.

The King Kleagle of Klout had to drag his third home run away from Herman Bell, who offered stout resistance. Hornsby personally directed this second relief pitcher not to give the Babe a good ball to hit at unless he had to. Bell obeyed instructions and fed Ruth five pitches until the count had reached three and two. Then the Cardinal youngster was in a hole and he cowered one for Ruth. That was all that the New York slugger asked of anybody today. He met it easily, but squarely and trotted around to

RED CROSS TO WORK FAST TO FIT STORM AREA FOR TOURISTS

Society Hopes for Greatest Speed, Fieser Tells Convention.

FACES GIGANTIC ODDS IN STATE, HE DECLARES

Resolutions and Other Closing Business at Today's Session.

The American Red Cross is going to work with extra speed in order to prepare Florida for the reception of tourists this winter, James L. Fieser, vice chairman of domestic operations, told the organization's annual convention yesterday.

"The Red Cross hopes to move with greater speed than in any other emergency and in the face of almost superhuman difficulties," he said. The State depends on tourist traffic, he pointed out.

Three of the problems confronting the organization's work in that State, he said, are the refugee groups who moved out at the time of the disaster but who are still victims; the question of drainage of the Lake Okechobee district, blocking the return of a sweep across that lake, and the matter of speed because of the tourist traffic on which the State depends.

Indianapolis Seeks Meeting.

He reassured towns which feared they would be overlooked because other places had figured more in the headlines. "The funds," he emphasized, "are central funds." Nearly 500 nurses are at work in the area from the Red Cross, the State boards of health and other institutions, he said.

J. Arthur Jeffers, assistant to the vice chairman, said he hoped appreciation of the speed with which the organization went into action would be reflected in its roll call November 11.

Indianapolis is seeking to have the organization meet there either next year or in 1928. The matter will be decided at the last meeting today.

Duplicity and Incapacity Laid to Martin by Cox

Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 6 (By A. P.). Asked today by the Associated Press if he would make a statement on the Florida hurricane relief situation, former Gov. James M. Cox said:

"Gov. Martin has brought me into his controversy with the Red Cross because of my ownership of the Miami Daily News. Chairman Payne, of the Red Cross, announced that it was impossible to procure funds in the North adequate for the relief needed in Florida because Gov. Martin was sending messages to State and city executives throughout the country to the effect that outside help was not needed. Gov. Martin denied this, whereupon the Miami Daily News reproduced Martin's personal message to the governor of New Hampshire, in which he said:

"Situation not as bad as reported. If occasion demands, I will call upon you."

"This clearly made Chairman Payne's case against the Florida relief effort, after which the latter sought, in his embarrassment, to attack the newspaper which had exposed both his incapacity and duplicity.

"In brief, the situation is this: The appalling calamity brought a full-sized man's responsibilities to the executive chair. The job was too big for the occupant, who should be pitied rather than condemned. It is unfortunate that the consequences of the pathetic picture at Tallahassee should fall upon thousands of storm sufferers."

A contemporary reports this from a customer:

"DERESIR—Am sending you back a bill of overcoat a few days ago but from you firm. It is short. One with the shortest button placed where the end one ought to be on this one would do as when the button on this one is in use in connection with where there could be a good fit but there is none. Otherwise the bill is all right—Yours sincere,

We couldn't promise to unravel all that satisfactorily, and so that we may never have to, we're especially careful even about such minor clothing details as the exact placing of buttons and buttonholes.

WOODS REVEAL BODY OF UNIDENTIFIED MAN

Laundry Mark Clew to Supposed Poison Victim in Randle Highlands.

The body of an unidentified man, believed to be about 50 years old, was found in the woods near the Old Pastnought farm, in Randle Highlands, yesterday afternoon. The body was discovered by Richard Howard, 1110 Sixth street southeast, and William Selby, 3120 G street southeast, who were strolling through the woods.

Headquarters Detective Arthur Scrivener is attempting to establish the identity of the man through a laundry mark, No. 2, 17, found on his clothes.

According to police, there was no evidence of murder. Scrivener found a bottle containing powder which is believed to be poison. Police are working on the theory that the man committed suicide early this spring.

DISTRICT PILGRIMS ROYALLY WELCOMED ON VISIT TO SESQUI

Washingtonians Honored With Reception and Meeting and Hold Parade.

PHILADELPHIA OFFICIALS EXTEND CITY'S GREETING

Dr. W. M. Lewis Lauds Capital's Advantages at Gathering in Auditorium.

Fatigued but cheerful after a day of strenuous activity in the Quaker City, the Washington excursionists who yesterday observed "District day" at the Philadelphia Sesquiennial returned here on a train reaching Union station shortly after 1 o'clock this morning. The pilgrims had nothing but praise for the courtesy of Philadelphia citizens, and were unanimous in declaring their visit to the exposition a complete success.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

Sesquiennial Grounds, Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 6.—Met at the special trains by official Sesqui automobiles, conducted to the Administration building for a reception and thence to the great auditorium, where they were officially welcomed by A. L. Sutton, acting Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick, the Washingtonians who came up to observe "District day" at the Sesqui were given a royal reception today. Press of official business prevented Mayor Kendrick from being present, but aside from his absence the program went through as originally planned.

Clear skies and a bright sun, a decided contrast from the rain left behind at Washington, greeted the pilgrims on their arrival and the District contingent formed what is declared to have been one of the best parades yet seen at the Sesqui. Headed by the American War Veterans' club stand of colors, with a whole battalion of marines as color guard, the parade formed immediately behind the United States Army band. Capt. William I. Stand, conducting, and marched through the Sesqui grounds to the auditorium where the exercises were held.

Commissioner Cuno H. Rudolph, presiding, Commissioners Dougherty and Bell, who came over by automobile, joined the party at the Administration building and rode in the official car to the auditorium.

Following the exercises at the auditorium, the members of the official party were guests of A. L. Sutton at luncheon at the Alpine hotel while a committee headed by Mrs. George Horace Lorimer entertained the ladies of the party.

Meeting at Auditorium.

At the auditorium the meeting was opened by the playing of the Chamber of Commerce march, dedicated to Isaac Gans, former president of the organization. Commissioner Rudolph then introduced Mr. Sutton, who, on behalf of the mayor, extended a hearty welcome and greeting to the pilgrims. Mr. Sutton declared that it was highly appropriate that the District of Columbia should have a part in the Sesquiennial celebration as much of the inspiration for the exhibits came from that section.

Replying, Commissioner Rudolph assured the citizens of Philadelphia of the interest of Washingtonians in their great exposition and extended cordial greeting on behalf of those present and also the half million or more at home. He declared that he hoped that this visit would lead to mutual civic reciprocity regards and relations.

Following the singing of the new version of "America" written by Theodore Henckels, Commissioner Rudolph introduced Dr. William M. Lewis, president of George Washington university and principal speaker of the day.

"Maine Day" at Sesqui.

Dr. Lewis presented the fact that yesterday was known as "Maine." He said he thought the celebration of District day made this the "main day" at the Sesqui.

The speaker stated that through him the District of Columbia greeted the birthplace of the Declaration of Independence, which he characterized as a document of unique importance. He recalled the moving of the Capital from Philadelphia to Washington and told how many of the government officials wanted to go back. He also pointed out the beauty of the present Capital and the fact that it makes them loath to leave at the present time.

Dr. Lewis pointed out some of the outstanding features of the Capital City. He showed how its beauty had been developed under the plans of L'Enfant, the brilliant French engineer, who must have foreseen the development of the automobile and planned his city accordingly. He showed how various features to be found exclusively in Washington, including similar features of the Old World.

The speaker paid a high tribute to the public school system of the District, declaring it one of the best in the world. He stated that Washington is the greatest school center in America; showed that whereas the general proportion of illiteracy in the United States is several per cent, in the District it is only 2.3 per cent. He noted the beauties of the Capital and declared that its mercantile business is one of the best in America.

Predicts Musical Center.

Dr. Lewis foresaw the time when Washington will be the musical center of the country and declared that the various theatres should combine to place a group of State buildings, each containing a State exhibit in Washington.

The speaker concluded with a short talk to the effect that while Washington is taxed and otherwise treated as any other city, its citizens are without representation. He paid a high tribute to the present government, but said that the people would like a chance to vote. This latter remark was loudly cheered.

Coming up on the train this morning the Hawaiian Melody Boys, a quartet of youngsters who know what to do with a bunch of stringed instruments, entertained each car in turn, winding up in the baggage car, where they played for an informal Charleston contest, in which Velma Leavell, Louise Fletcher, Louise Scott, Dorothy Kern and Margaret Fisher displayed some high and fancy steps.

Pink Shroud the Latest, But They Call It Negligee

Attractive Blonde Wears One at Exhibit Held Here by Undertakers' Convention—Powder Blue Is Another Favorite Color.

Passionate pink funeral shrouds are popular this year, it was learned at the undertakers' exhibit, held in the Washington auditorium in connection with the forty-fifth annual convention of the National Funeral Directors' association of the United States. The convention opened at the Willard hotel yesterday.

In fact, all colors of the rainbow were discerned in the burial wardrobes on view—orchid, cream, champagne, powder blue and gray. Stripes change annually, last year the powder blue being the favorite color. All of the costumes were elaborately trimmed in lace. "Shrouds" no longer is used by the undertakers to describe the garments. They are referred to as "negligees" and coffins as "caskets." The negligees range in price from $12.50 to $75. One of the gowns was being worn by an attractive bobbed hair blond girl yesterday.

Splendor in funeral garments is not confined to women's wear. Striped ties are used exclusively now for the men except where the formal bow tie is used. Tailored three-piece suits suitable for street wear are used by the undertakers to dress the bodies.

The old practice of making the suits with a false back has been abandoned, it was said. The suits

RITCHIE TO ASK END OF GRADE CROSSINGS

Governor Tells 500 in Hyattsville He Will Submit State-wide Plan to Legislature.

Funds for the elimination of railroad grade crossings throughout Maryland will be asked from the next legislature, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie last night told 500 persons attending a Democratic rally in Masonic hall, Hyattsville. The estimated cost of this program is $20,000,000, the governor stated, with the railroads bearing half the expense.

Applause greeted Gov. Ritchie's promise that the Hyattsville crossing will be eliminated "within a reasonable time." Recalling a previous pledge on this subject, Gov. Ritchie declared that although the State now has sufficient funds for this purpose, immediate steps are deemed unwise owing to the disagreement of citizens upon the method of elimination.

Plans of the State to extend Rhode Island avenue from the District line at Mount Rainier to Johnson avenue, Hyattsville, were explained by the governor, who said this will be done with the crossing elimination as a "joint proposition."

Los Angeles, Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—Melvin A. Traylor, of Chicago, was elected president of the American Bankers' association at the annual convention of the organization held today. Thomas R. Preston, of Chattanooga, Tenn., was elected first vice president, and Craig V. Hazelwood, of Chicago, second vice president. The bankers chose leaders who have won their way to recognition by hard work and study.

The new president, who is 48, worked in a grocery store in Hillsboro, Tex., as a youth and studied law at night. After practicing law a short while he became connected with banks at Malone and Ballinger, Tex., later going to East St. Louis and thence to Chicago.

Began as Messenger.
Mr. Preston climbed the banking ladder from his first job as runner for a bank at Tullahoma, Tenn. He was graduated from an academy in Tennessee, taught in country schools and studied law during his vacations.

Woman's Hate of Jazz Brings Her Jail Term

Boston, Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—Miss Marion V. Bray, 32 years old, was sentenced to two months in jail and a fine of $10 by Justice Elmer Briggs in the Roxbury district court today after she had been convicted of having put nails and broken glass under the tires of an automobile owned by Morcy Pearl, an orchestra leader.

Commenting on the suggestion that Miss Bray had provoked the deed, because of the noise made by Pearl's orchestra in a dance hall, Judge Briggs said: "If you live in a jazz locality you've got to have jazz bands."

The sentence was pronounced after Miss Bray and her counsel had declined to accept a suspended sentence. She appealed.

Chicago, Mr. Hazelwood started his banking career as a messenger for a Chicago bank.

Delegates to the convention went through a general session today devoted entirely to business of the association and listening to a speech by Garard B. Winston, Undersecretary of the Treasury who gave an exhaustive address on the nation's financial situation and declared further Federal tax reductions were impractical at this time. There was no discussion of the McFadden branch banking bill which took so much of the convention's time yesterday.

Indorse Debt Policy.
Indorsement of the National administration's policies in dealing with foreign governmental debts and recommendations that the bankers association favor extending to the farmer every assistance that would not run counter to fundamental economic principles were two of the important resolutions embodied in the report of the resolutions committee. The committee also recommended a policy by the Federal government and the Interstate Commerce Commission that will be favorable to such railroad consolidation as will conduce to the public welfare.

W. W. Woodson, of Waco, Tex., announced a meeting to be held prior to the general convention tomorrow to consider the agricultural and credit situation in certain cotton growing States.

PRESIDENT OF A. F. L. DECLINES TO SPEAK AT CHURCH MEETING

Green Refuses Advances of Federal Council After Ban
From Detroit Pulpits.

CONVENTION DENOUNCES
MINISTERS' ULTIMATUM

Patriotism of Unions Defended by Speakers Aroused by Commerce Board Action.

Detroit, Oct. 6 (By A. F.).—Following vigorous denunciation in the American Federation of Labor convention of the action of Detroit ministers and Y. M. C. A. officials in closing their pulpits to labor speakers, President Green, of the federation, tonight declined an invitation to speak at a church meeting of the Protestant churches of Detroit.

Announcement of Mr. Green's decision to decline the invitation of the church council came a few hours after he had been formally advised by C. M. Van Dusen, president of the board of control of the Detroit Y. M. C. A., that an invitation extended him in July to address a "Y" meeting next Sunday had been withdrawn.

The Rev. James Myers, field secretary of the Federal Council of Churches, was extended the privilege of the convention floor near the end of a special session this afternoon, at which the action of the Detroit churches in withdrawing their invitation was discussed under a suspension of rules as a special order of business.

The Rev. Mr. Myers told the delegates the action of the Detroit ministers did not reflect the attitude of the Christian Church throughout the country. He said the federal council had arranged a special meeting next Sunday, at which President Green would be invited to speak on "Ideals of Labor in the Church."

The convention adjourned at the conclusion of the Rev. Mr. Myers' address to resume the discussion at the morning session tomorrow.

William Green, president of the federation, answered to a question from the floor that during the noon recess today he had been formally notified that an invitation extended him in July to speak at a Y. M. C. A. meeting next Sunday had been withdrawn.

John P. Frey, president of the Ohio State federation, prefaced his integration of Green with a vigorous denunciation of the action of the churches and a reply to the published inference of the Detroit Board of Commerce that the aims of the American Federation of Labor speakers who had been invited to all Detroit pulpits Sunday were not in harmony with the traditional ideals of American patriotism.

Open Letter Denounced.
Frey began by reading an open letter from the Detroit Board of Commerce to the ministers of the city, in which the labor speakers named were characterized as "men who are admittedly attacking our government and our American plan of employment."

The letter ended with the suggestion that the ministers deliberate "whether or not you wish to have your church deviate from the program for which it is maintained."

"I first want to ask," Frey began, "if it is in truth a fact that a speech by a representative of the American Federation of Labor would present a deviation from the program for which the Christian church is maintained?"

"The altar of the church ever has been the refuge of the oppressed," he concluded. "Let this convention warn now that when Mammon dominates the altar, Christianity has passed away."

"I deeply resent the implication of those gentlemen that the patriotism and loyalty of the American

(Special Cable Dispatch.)
Hankow, China, Oct. 6.—The Chinese Red Cross today allowed the correspondent to join the crew of one of the launches rescuing thousands of noncombatants from the city of Wuchang, across the wide Yangtze river. There are only two launches, but these two several lighters on which refugees are loaded.

Wuchang is besieged by the Cantonese army, which is said to get its main inspiration from soviet Russia. The holders of the city are allied with Gen. Wu Pei Fu. They have held the city against the Cantonese for 36 days. Stories of starvation within the city have been coming to the outside.

Crowds Swam on Pier.
By agreement with the Red Cross both armies ceased firing at 7 a. m. The two launches slowly dragged their lighters across the river. They proceeded by agreement to the south gate of the city where long piers extend out into the stream. The gate was strongly

An investigation of the rescinding of invitations originally extended to officers of the American Federation of Labor to fill Detroit's pulpits next Sunday, was started today by the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, chairman of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

This is one of the three organizations that had asked the labor leaders to speak.

Dr. Cadman declined to make any statement regarding the situation until full information reaches him from representatives of the federation at Detroit. He declared the issue to be important and one that required full explanation.

JAMES B. EVANS DIES; LONG MONUMENT PILOT

For 25 Years He Also Was Doorkeeper at the National Theater.

FUNERAL ON SATURDAY

James B. Evans, 71 years old, a picturesque figure in Washington because he was for nearly 40 years elevator operator in the Washington monument, died yesterday in Emergency hospital after an illness of two weeks.

Mr. Evans was a timekeeper during the work of construction and when the work was done and the elevator installed, he was given the task of operating it. He was also doorkeeper at the National theater for a quarter of a century.

For many years his daily occupation took him to greater heights in a building than was attained by any other person in the world, for the monument was completed in 1884, and that was before the day of airplanes or Woolworth sky-scrapers.

It was no easy task to be elevator operator in the monument. Not only was it an arduous job to handle the crowds, but the constant trips to the high elevation was no slight strain. He handled the job without any great trouble and retired about three years ago. Since then, it is believed, four men have tackled the task.

Mr. Evans was doorkeeper at the National theater until stricken September 23. He was at first lobby policeman and then doorkeeper. According to theater officials, he had an extraordinary faculty for handling crowds.

He was a native of Georgetown, it is said.

Funeral services will be held at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Lucy McDonnell, 1116 Twenty-fifth street northwest. Requiem masses will be sung at St. Stephen's church, at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in Mount Olivet cemetery. Besides Mrs. McDonnell, he is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Agnes Plowman, also of this city, and by grandchildren.

DR. W. S. BIGELOW DEAD.

Student of the Orient Was Con-noisseur of Art.

Boston, Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—Dr. William Sturgis Bigelow, 76, a well-known Boston physician for more than half a century, art connoisseur, author and lifelong friend of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, died today.

He was a deep student of Buddhism and the Orient and was author of "Buddhism and Immortality." In 1911 he presented his collection of Oriental treasures to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, giving it thereby first rank in Japanese and Chinese art, the only other collection comparable to it, according to critics, being that of the Japanese government. He was commander of the Imperial Order of the Rising Sun, a Japanese organization; a member of the Asiatic society of Japan, the American Oriental society and similar organizations. He was a profound admirer of the Japanese life and character.

COL. J. E. BAXTER RITES.

Retired Army Officer Is Buried in Arlington Cemetery.

The War Department yesterday received notice of the death of Col. John E. Baxter, retired, Monday, at Bon Secours hospital, Baltimore.

Col. Baxter was born at North Vernon, now Glenwood, N. J., in 1853, and was graduated from West Point, N. Y., in 1877, retiring after serving in the infantry and quartermaster corps, in 1917. His widow, Mrs. Elizabeth R. Baxter, Baltimore, and his daughter, Mrs. Donald H. Connolly, wife of Maj. D. H. Connolly, engineers, Memphis, Tenn., survive. Burial services were held in Arlington National cemetery yesterday.

UTES FOR GEORGE KELLEY.

Services to Be Conducted Today for Retired Policeman.

Funeral services for George Kelley, 77 years old, retired policeman of Washington, who died at his home, 2564 Georgia avenue, Monday, will be conducted in Immaculate Conception church at 8:30 o'clock this morning. Interment will be in Arlington National cemetery.

Mr. Kelley had served on the police force here for 36 years at the time of his retirement. He was a native of New York, and enlisted in the army as a boy shortly after the close of the civil war. He is survived by his wife.

UTES FOR G. G. TURNER.

Colored Sexton Was Caretaker of Woodrow Wilson's Pew.

George G. Turner, for many years sexton of the Central Presbyterian church, Sixteenth and Irving streets, was buried yesterday in Middleburg, Va., the funeral services being attended by the Rev. James H. Taylor, elders, deacons and Women's Auxiliary of the church.

The colored sexton took great interest in his service as caretaker of the pew of President Woodrow Wilson during his attendance at Central church. He was held in high esteem by all church members. He is survived by a widow and three children.

W. L. FLEISHELL DIES; COMPOSITOR ON POST

Formerly Was Grand Knight
in Carroll Council, Knights of Columbus.

William L. Fleishell, 4310 Georgia avenue northwest, 59 years old, for more than 30 years a compositor on The Post, died yesterday in Georgetown hospital from heart disease, following an illness of two years. Mr. Fleishell was a native of Washington, and entered newspaper work when a young man.

He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, and was a former grand knight of the Carroll council here. Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday, October 9, at St. Peter's church. The body was taken from Georgetown hospital to the Ryan undertaking establishment, 327 Pennsylvania avenue southeast.

Mr. Fleishell is survived by four children, Sheldon, Vincent, Raymond, and Mary Fleishell, all of Washington; two brothers, Edward A. Fleishell, of Washington, and George Fleishell, of Pittsburgh, and one sister, Mrs. Wooten Young, of Washington.

Mrs. Cooper Held For Arlington Jury

Mrs. Reva Mae Cooper, who gave the name of "Pal" Eagles when she was arrested here following the murder of Policeman Leo Busch, was held for the Arlington county grand jury by Judge Harry R. Thomas in the Arlington county police court yesterday.

Mrs. Cooper confessed to Washington detectives, they say, that she held up the gasoline filling station at Myles, Va., October 1. For that reason she was turned over to the Arlington county authorities. She seemed unperturbed when she was arraigned yesterday.

Announcing the NEW Five-Passenger Brougham

Eight Cylinder Closed Car Comfort at a Remarkable Price

A refreshing departure from ordinary body types, the new Hupmobile Brougham offers eight-cylinder smoothness and performance with compact beauty of line and supreme riding comfort for five adult passengers.

At the lowest price ever placed on a closed car mounted on the Eight chassis, the Brougham stands out as one of the really great values of the year.

Built for those who prefer an intimate car—and whose choice has heretofore been confined to the coach or 4-passenger coupe types—this distinctive car affords immensely greater luxury, comfort and convenience.

Without sacrifice of exterior beauty, the Brougham provides exceptionally generous seating capacity.

Two front passengers are accommodated by extra large individual seats, deeply upholstered and tilting forward to allow access to the rear seat.

Three passengers in the rear occupy a generously wide seat, with upholstered arm rests on each side. Two wide doors permit easy entrance and exit from either side.

The mohair upholstery is identical with that furnished in the highest priced Hupmobile Eight closed cars. Exterior finish is Pelham Blue, with black upper structure. Rear deck space is provided for a large trunk.

Combined with the finest of straight-eight performance, and Hupmobile's reputation for reliability, long life and low cost of maintenance, the Brougham meets the needs of a great majority of motorists.

See the new Brougham now on display at our salesrooms. You will be amazed at its custom beauty and luxurious appointments.

If you prefer, a car will be sent to your home or office at a time convenient to you.

SCHOOL PUPILS TAUGHT
HOW TO EXTINGUISH FIREChief Watson and Truck Company Give Lesson at Shaw
Junior High.

BLAZE FOUGHT IN YARD

Fire Chief George Watson, J. Leo
Kolb, chairman of the Citizens Fire Prevention week committee, and members of No. 4 truck company gave a practical demonstration and talk on fire prevention and fire, before members of the Shaw Junior High school yesterday afternoon.Lieut. H. A. Chapman, of No. 4 truck company, demonstrated to the students the proper method of turning in an alarm box, going and all necessary appliances, which were set on the stage of the assembly hall.Following this demonstration
Chief Watson had several students turn in an alarm. Students and teachers then adjourned to the school yard where they were taught the proper use of fire extinguishers.A fire was built, and the firemen, aided by the students, put the blaze out with extinguishers.Yesterday's demonstration, according to Mr. Kolb, was but one of the ways in which the Citizens Fire Prevention week committee is seeking to put before school children the necessity of strict observance of rules for fire prevention.RAND HOLDS MILLER CASE FALLS THROUGH

Rand said, of receiving a penny more than his retainer. Merton did, as a matter of fact, Rand acknowledged, pay King the full fee of $441,000, but that was purely a matter that he decided to do of his own accord and was not an action that King could reasonably either have demanded or expected.In another part of his summation Rand pointed out that in the letter forwarding the Merton claim to Daugherty's office, from Miller's, no actual recommendation of approval was made. The letter merely turned the claim over for approval. If the facts stated in them are found to be true.A voice from the grave, which defense counsel believed might clear the defendants, was silenced by Judge Mack today on the ground that it was legally inadmissible.Max D. Steuer offered the testimony given last December before a grand jury by John T. King.King was indicted in connection with the release through Daugherty and Miller's offices of the impounded assets of the American Metals Co., but died before he was brought to trial.The government believed the release was effected by King using part of $441,000 given to him as a fee by Richard Merton, German copper magnate, to put the metal claim through, at bribes which induced Daugherty and Miller to withhold their veto."I don't know what King said before this grand jury," Steuer said,
"but he told his story and we want the jury to know what it was.""I object," said United States Attorney Buckner."How is it admissible?" Judge
Mack asked.

Blocked By Buckner.

"What difference does it make,"
Steuer pleaded, "whether it is technically admissible or not? King is dead and can not tell his story now.
But before he died he told that story before the grand jury. As he is alleged to have been one of the conspirators, it seems to me that his sworn story ought to be allowed to shed what light it might on the case. I again request that John T.
King be allowed to explain through these pages how he arranged passage of these claims through the offices of the present defendants.""There is no law," said Judge Mack, "which permits me to admit such evidence over objection. Of course, if Mr. Buckner had not objected it would have gone in."All eyes were turned upon Buckner, but he sat motionless at the counsel table with folded arms and firmly pursed lips, shaking his head as Steuer made his plea.Mal S. Daugherty, testifying again today, told how $74,400 of Merton-King liberty bonds were found in Jess W. Smith's accounts after his suicide.

The bonds, part of a block of $391,000 that Richard Merton, German metal magnate, gave to the late John T. King as a commission, were in banks in Washington and Cleveland, Mal Daugherty testified.The estate of Smith amounted to a little less than $200,000. Mal Daugherty said. This "country merchant" who became the ex-officio organizer of the Department of Justice and who traveled at government expense and gave orders concerning government investigations, had sold his general merchandise store before he died. That brought him $39,000.Mal Daugherty testified that Smith never had large sums deposited in the Midland National Bank at Washington Courthouse, Ohio, of which Mal Daugherty is president, until after Harry Daugherty became Attorney General. He could not account for the sudden accession to wealth by Smith.

Transferred to Daugherty.

The "Jess Smith, extra" account in the Midland National Bank, out of which Smith paid Harry Daugh-erty's Washington household expenses, was transferred to a "Harry and Mal Daugherty" account after Smith's death, Mal Daugherty said.
This account was for about $700,
he testified.While the Harry and Mal Daugherty account was opened as a "political account," Mal Daugherty continued, it was not used as such.Previously Mal Daugherty had testified that five $10,000 Merton-King Liberty bonds had been given to him by Smith to meet a deficit in an Ohio political campaign fund.
Smith had collected. Another sum of $22,000, being proceeds of the sale of other Merton-King bonds, was traced to the "Jess Smith extra" account in the Midland National Bank and testimony showed that this was for use in the Ohio permanent Republican campaign fund.POMERENE NOW LOOMS

Says Rockwell.New York, Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—
Judge David Ladd Rockwell, cam-

Ohio Democrats would undoubtedly have a favorite son candidate for President in 1928 if they are able to elect Albee Pomerene to the United States Senate or to reelect
Gov. Doheny.Al Smith's chances in the South and West are no better than they were two years ago, in Judge Rock-well's opinion. He said, however, that 1928 was too far away to talk much about him.E. T. Meredith, of Iowa, Secretary of Agriculture under the Wilson administration, "is of presidential size," Judge Rockwell said, and will surely be a candidate "if he will permit the use of his name."
He said he did not believe the acdicated necessarily that he would be a candidate again.Commander Ross about by political indiscretion—namely, his removal from the highest active military position in the German republic.The general today tendered his resignation as commander in chief of the reichswehr and it is believed that President von Hindenburg will accept it.Evidently without "foreseeing the political possibilities that would be stirred up," Von Seeckt permitted Prince Wilhelm, eldest son of the former crown prince, to participate in recent maneuvers of the reichs-wehr. The prince served in the Potsdam regiment, where many of his ancestors had received their military training.The ministry of defense felt impelled to investigate how Prince Wilhelm's presence at Munsingen was made possible. Thereupon Gen. von Seeckt personally reported that he permitted the participation of the prince.

The motor car industry was startled when Buick presented the new Buick, with an engine vibrationless beyond belief.If you have driven this great new car, with this remarkable engine, you

NO ALLIANCE WITH FOREIGNERS.

If the metal trade department of the American Federation of Labor should listen to the appeal of the foreign delegates representing the International Federation of Metal Workers, who urge the American workers in the metallurgical industries to affiliate with the international organization in an offensive and defensive alliance, the result would be disastrous to the Americans.

The internationalists in labor circles are extremely anxious to profit by connections with American labor. They have two objects in view: First, they know that American labor is well paid and can furnish money for propaganda purposes; and second, they hope to break down the barriers between American labor and socialism. Incubated addictions to false doctrines, these foreigners can not conceive of a society in which labor and capital work in harmony, as in the United States. Their conception of labor is "class war," and their ideal is a continuous strike culminating in revolution and the ascendancy of "labor." They do not realize that in the United States everybody labors, and that the laborer of today may be the big employer of tomorrow.

American labor has no relation to foreign labor. The "liberty" that foreign labor prates about is already possessed by American labor; but American labor has still more. It is protected against foreign pauperism, both by the protective tariff and by the immigration laws. American wages are the highest in the world, and the day of cheap labor has forever disappeared in the United States. The tendency here is to decrease the hours of labor and to increase wages. Nothing is to be gained by American labor in affiliating with foreign labor organizations. Nothing in foreign countries offers any advantages to American labor. Nor is the American workingman concerned in reforming foreign countries. It is not up to him to give his contribution to the uplift and enlightenment of countries which, although hundreds of years old, do not have the good sense and liberality of the United States in dealing with the rights of citizens.

If foreign labor wishes to profit by American example, let it cease fighting its partner, capital, and bend its energies to the creation of governments based upon the popular will. Let it quit its opposition to machinery and its idiotic policy of curtailing individual production. America claims no monopoly of labor freedom. Its system is not patented. Any country can make its government dependent upon the consent of the governed if its people have the nerve and intelligence to take control. If they lack this nerve and intelligence, American labor can not be expected to endow them with those qualities. Still less should American labor be expected to encourage foreign labor in its heresies by making alliances with it and furnishing the money for the circulation of ideas which, if adopted, would destroy the independence and prosperity of American labor.

A NEW THEORY OF EDUCATION.

For several years past the public has not been satisfied that the most has been made of our educational system in order to secure from it the best results for the students and for the nation. These misgivings have been shared to a large extent by educators themselves, the more conscientious of whom do their utmost in a daily grind of prescribed routine, without the comfort of being free to think that their well-meant efforts have given real light and leading to the youth entrusted to their care. The discontent with the system is spread over the whole line, primary, secondary, and college or university, but it is most marked in the case of the last-mentioned.

From time to time attempts have been made to bring about a reform and, because some of these attempts were praiseworthy, as well as more or less practical, an improvement has been occasionally noticed; but, so far at least as the university undergraduate is concerned, the feeling still persists that the best possible is not done for him during his formative years, and that, therefore, he, in turn, is not able to give of the best that is in him either to the service of his community or to his own advancement. Among those who entertain this feeling is Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, who in a recent interview outlined a plan which he hopes may secure better results than have heretofore been achieved. It is, of course, a plan in its incipient stage, and experience alone can determine whether it will be successful.

Dr. Frank thinks that the average undergraduate university student of today is liable to fall a victim to either of two dangers—the danger of suicidal smattering or the danger of suicidal specializing—and that the challenge to educators is to devise ways and means of providing for the student both the advantage of broad cultural background and the advantage of later intensive specialization. He thinks that the crux of the problem is to be encountered in the first two years of college, and that a radical new approach to its solution is necessary—an approach, as he says, that may mean the scrapping of the present curriculum.

He supposes that the time may come when universities will grant a degree for these first two years to the great mass of students who, without sustained intellectual interests, go to college for no very specific reason. The exodus that would follow would leave the university free to devote its attention to the better type of student.

This, he says, will, in the case of the better students, give us men and women better prepared for the stiff and searching work of the highly specialized years to follow.

The proposal, as will be seen, is a revolutionary one, and many will hold up their hands in horror of it, but, like other things that have emanated from Wisconsin, it is deserving of careful consideration, and ought to be judged without prejudice and solely on its merits.

TARIFF COMMISSION IN COURT.

The fate of the tariff commission is involved in the case of J. W. Hampton, Jr., & Co., which was called yesterday in the Court of Customs Appeals. The case is expected to be carried to the Supreme Court.

Hampton & Co. attack the action of the tariff commission in recommending to the President an increase of the duty on barium dioxide, a chemical in which the plaintiffs are interested as importers. The commission urged that the duty be made sufficient to cover the increased cost of producing barium dioxide in the United States as compared with the cost of production abroad.

The importer holds that Congress exceeded its constitutional authority when in the flexible clause of the tariff act of 1922 it transferred to the President the right to increase or lower duties on any imported article. It is insisted that Congress alone has the power "to lay duties."

The very existence of the tariff commission may hang upon the disposition of the question at issue by the Supreme Court, for the commission exists only for the purpose of advising the executive and Congress as to the desirability, and necessity, of altering the duties on imports. If the court should decide that the contention of Hampton & Co. is sound, any further recommendations of the commission to the President will naturally be of no effect. The tariff commission, while originally created to investigate the relative costs of production at home and abroad and to submit its findings to the House of Representatives, has never been regarded by Congress as a useful adjunct to the committee on ways and means, which body initiates all tariff legislation. With the flexible provision of the tariff law declared illegal the tariff commission would find its occupation gone.

Tariff policy is a political problem, affecting revenue, economic national defense and the public welfare. No commission can act for the people and Congress on such an important problem as this.

EXPLOITING BABE RUTH.

Babe Ruth, besides being a fairly successful baseball player, apparently is also a student of psychology, advertising and business. He has just finished a season with the New York Yankees during which he clouted out 47 home runs. The year before, it may be remembered, the Babe did not do as well, and the season of 1926 has been in the nature of a comeback. A year ago this month the "King of Swat" was not the idol he is today. So it seems that he chose well the day and the year when he published yesterday, over a facsimile of his signature, an advertisement, the bold black headline of which declared: "I made my comeback! So can you!"

"A year ago I was all shot," the Babe declares frankly in the text. Continuing, he calls attention to the fact that this season he has been on his toes all year, in as good physical trim as he ever has been. There is no secret about it, either, he says, for the metamorphosis came about through a system he has devised to keep himself fit. Now the system is offered to the gullible public, for a small payment down, balance on delivery, which includes an autographed bat "with which to work."

Some one may doubt that Babe Ruth himself worked out this system. Some one may remember pictures of this gentleman in conical cap and lumberman's boots cutting down trees on his New England farm to get himself fit. Some one may recollect hardly a pre-training season trip to Hot Springs, where long walks and a rubber shirt helped work off pounds of avoirdupois. But the magic of a name will make many forget these things, and Babe Ruth's health system will probably make money for its owners. The time of starting the ads in New York was propitious, but from available reports the propaganda has not yet appeared in St. Louis.

HOW WILL LABOR VOTE?

Harry E. Hull, commissioner general of immigration, discussing the subject of restrictive immigration, before the National Manufacturers association, in New York, said the experience of the last five years had removed all fears of any further influx of cheap labor into this country. Legislation of recent years has given the government full control over the character and the number of would-be citizens, enabling it to refuse entry to undesirable and deport those already here, and to limit, under the existing quota system, the entry of aliens.

Under the American standard of living "cheap labor" is not desirable, but with improved methods of production, the institution of labor-saving machinery, and general industrial progress which has reached its peak in the United States, what once was considered a menace by organized labor has lost its threatening aspect.

What is of serious concern to capital and labor alike is the danger that would come from the unrestricted admission here of the products of the cheap labor countries of Europe. This would result in an unfair competition with American labor which, if successful, would lower the present standard of living by compelling a reduction in wages to meet new and unfavorable conditions, and reduce both the earning and purchasing power of American workers.

This is a menace that not even the most drastic immigration act can avert. The present tariff law is the barrier that prevents the dumping of the cheaper production of other countries into the American market. Opponents of the protective tariff have announced their purpose, if given control of Congress, to reduce tariff rates and grant foreigners the privilege of doing business in the American market to the detriment of those now paying and those now receiving the highest wage ever known.

By their votes to be cast next month the workmen of the United States will say whether they prefer present conditions or a change that may bring less wages for themselves. Labor is now discussing the question of the five-day week; in doing so it should bear in mind that this could be possible only through a continuance of the policy that has brought American industry to its present high level.

WALKING REGULATIONS.

The regulation controlling pedestrians will tomorrow go into effect. In a memorandum to precinct commanders issued last Tuesday, the superintendent of police explains the regulation by pointing out that it means "that at all crosswalks other than those controlled by traffic officers or traffic devices, pedestrians must be given the right of way, and that at intersections controlled by traffic officers pedestrians cross against moving traffic at their own risk, but at intersections controlled by electric light signals they specifically are forbidden to cross the street through moving traffic."

It is generally admitted that pedestrian control is beneficial and necessary both to the walking public and the motorist. It is hard to understand, however, why it has been found necessary to draw a line between a corner controlled by an officer and a corner controlled by an automatic signal. Obviously, the danger exists equally in both intersections, and it would seem that pedestrians should be forbidden to go counter to traffic in either case.

The courts have hesitated to abridge the right of the pedestrian to cross the streets as he chooses. Regulations designed to control the situation in downtown intersections have invariably come to grief when tested before a judge. The regulation going into effect tomorrow, however, will probably be sustained.

MEETING THE COTTON CRISIS.

Some time next week, unless there is a change in the program, a meeting of the governors of the cotton States will be held in Jackson, Miss., for the purpose of devising ways and means for the relief of the cotton farmers of the South. The steady decline in the price of that important product, in spite of the probable decrease in the total crop as compared with 1925, means great financial distress throughout the cotton belt.

No one section of the United States can bear the burden of financial depression without affecting the business of every other part of the country. If the cotton grower can not sell his crop he can not pay his bills to the merchant who supplies his needs, and that merchant in turn is unable to meet his obligations to the jobber of the North and East. The financial centers of the country are prepared to extend all possible aid to the Southern bankers, who must finance the holders of cotton stocks and have offered to do so. This proffered assistance will undoubtedly be accepted as soon as some plan can be devised which will meet the situation, and it is with this in view that Gov. Whitfield of Mississippi has invited the executives of the other States in the cotton belt to meet with him to discuss the situation and to devise measures of relief.

It will be noted that the Texas bankers have undertaken to provide a fund of upward of $50,000,000 with which to provide the means to meet the immediate needs of the growers of Texas, and some of the bankers of other Southern States are understood to be ready to follow the lead of Texas. Thus far no suggestion has been heard that the Federal government must supply the wherewithal with which to finance the cotton growers, which is what the farmers of Dixie differ with their colleagues in the wheat and corn growing States.

The best plan to preserve peace is to have one big nation that desires nothing living alongside smaller ones, it could lick.

The Worst Story I Heard Today—By Will Rogers

Some fellows I know are always telling me jokes on preachers. It's easy to see why they stick the josh onto the minister, ain't it? It's because the reverend can stand it. Well, I'm like this drawing cartoons of people. Let 'em draw all the cartoons they want to of Mary Garden or Miss America. They can stand it. It don't phase 'em a bit. But yot go to getting too serious with valentines of me or Irv Cobb or King George, and somebody is liable to recognize a genuine likeness and feel terrible sad. Now, you tell jokes on some folks and they might suffer, but the nice thing to do is to fasten it onto the preacher where it won't do any harm.

Well, they tell me there was a cow man down in my part of Oklahoma that went to a revival, and the preacher was making a mighty good speech. But this bird had been testing out a little corn liquor just to see whether it was the kind that makes people blind or not, and he went to sleep. The preacher took a kind of a vote when he was just about at the end of his sermon. He said, "Now all that wants to go to heaven will stand up." The folks stood up, and when they were sitting down the noise woke Bill, and so he just managed to get to his feet after the preacher had said, "If there's any that wants to go to hell, let them stand up."

So Bill looked around and rubbed his eyes and said: "Well, parson, I don't list exactly know what you-all is a-evin' about, but whatever it is, you an' me seems to be awamped by the majority, don't we?"

PRESS COMMENT.

The Plug-Ugly Passes.

Philadelphia Record: There has been much talk of the bookishness of Gene Tunney and of the sudden push of culture to the prize ring. It would seem that there is more truth in all this than most people have supposed, as witness the current news dispatch telling of the heavy-weight elimination tournaments that Tex Rickard is to inaugurate on Thursday night to produce suitable opponents for Tunney. It announces the first bout "between Knute Hansen and Frank Danner, German title holder." Both these men, for all we know, may be scholars and gentlemen; and listen to the balance of the dispatch: "Monte Munn, Nebraska assemblyman, is booked for a six-round clash with Jimmy Murphy, former Ohio football star. Henry Lamar, a grandson of the late Justice Lamar, of the Supreme Court, makes his debut in a four-round fight against George Gemas, of Philadelphia." Truly, the day of the plain plug-ugly has passed.

Sportsmanship

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THIS is addressed to youngsters, who probably won't read it unless somebody urges them to do it.

It has as its text one of the oldest sayings preserved among men: "The man who pays the fiddler has a right to name the tune." The saying survives because the simplest mind can comprehend its meaning and recognize its justice.

There comes a time in the life of every normal youth when he begins to feel cramped by parental authority. It is a little trick Nature employs to drive young men afield and cause them to take brides in a distant land and thus avoid the inbreeding that would be fatal to the race.

When the boy is about 16 years old, he begins to be conscious of an ability to think for himself. He no longer, except as a matter of form and courtesy, accepts parental opinion as the voice of God. He begins to feel restraint, to scorn those who do not think as he thinks, to feel "grand, gloomy and peculiar." And he entertains thoughts of running away.

This much can be said for running away. Whatever the law may say about it, ethics must grant to every boy of 16, 18 or 20 every inalienable right enjoyed by the boy of 22.

But if the boy has an inalienable right to leave home when he feels that he must, he has no rights contrary to the wishes of his parents while he remains at home.

If he thinks he has a right to sleep in a bed and wear clothing and eat food provided by his father's labor, and yet do contrary to his father's will, he is a rotten sport without any conception of fair play. While old Dad pays the fiddler, he has a right to call the tune.

Liberty is man's chief treasure. Every youth who yearns for liberty has within him the raw material of manhood. But liberty is a thing to be deserved and earned. To howl for liberty while eating bread earned by another man's sweat is yellow. And no boy is sufficiently grown-up to deserve liberty until he learns that accepting Dad's food imposes an obligation to accept Dad as Captain.

(Copyright, 1926)

Garret the author takes issue with a criticism recently voiced by Agnes Reppel which is virtually an apology for the conduct of Americans abroad. Mr. Garret's opinion is that we compare very unfavorably with tourists of other nations, and he is probably right. In the mass Americans are as well-behaved as others in alien countries. The trouble is, however, that of a few loud-voiced, self-assertive, so-called 100 per centers can spoil the effect of thousands of others who go about their stirring quietly and with consideration. These stand out like a sore thumb.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Rare Books.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: On Thursday evening, September 30, there came to a close at the National Arts club, of New York city, one of the rarest and most unique exhibitions that was ever opened to the American public.

The exhibition consisted of about 3,000 volumes of the world's rarest books, all of them printed between the year 1450 and 1500. They are now being prepared for shipment to be returned to their European bookshelves in the library of that great bibliophile, Dr. Vollbehr.

The Vollbehr Incunabula (that is books printed prior to the year 1500) has been on exhibition at the above-mentioned well-known rendezvous of American men of arts and letters, and once shipped back to its destination will no longer delight the eye and heart of the American book lover. Never in the history of bibliography has there been assembled under one roof such a wealth of wonderful productions of the printer's art.

When one considers that the making of the first printed book began in the year 1450 and was completed five years later, and that the first books printed in America were in 1639 and 1640, and that other products of the primitive printing presses of Germany, England, France, Switzerland, Spain and Italy, equally rare, brought thousands of students and lovers of art to view this remarkable collection, it seems a pity that at least some of these books could not be secured for our great institutions of learning, such as Harvard, Yale, Princeton or Columbia, where these splendid examples of the age of Gutenberg and Faust might be an inspiration to the student as well as to the teacher.

The collection contains the rarest volumes of this period of the printer's cradle, covering the fields of music, medicine, pharmacy, jurisprudence, theology and travel. It is a pity that our government, in spite of its great riches and magnificent collections and museums, is not in a position to acquire some, if not all, of this most unique of all private book collections in the world. The possession of such a library by the government or one of the great American universities would bring to our shores the very cradle of fifteenth century books.

ALFRED K. NIPPERT.
Cincinnati, October 4.

A Diplomat Fined.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: They say diplomats are immune from arrest. The following is from the Cleveland Plain Dealer of September 28:
"Cincinnati, Sept. 28 (By A. P.). Carlos Salgado, Colombia consul to Cincinnati, was fined $10 and costs in traffic court today for violating automobile parking regulations. "When cited to court a week ago, Salgado refused to appear for trial, saying he was immune from the laws of the United States because of his position as a diplomat."

"Judge Samuel W. Bell ordered a policeman to arrest Salgado and if necessary to bring him to court in a police patrol. Salgado, informed of the court's order, agreed to accompany the policeman to court."

"The police court prosecutor told Judge Bell that he examined all the laws of the United States and believed that a diplomat is not immune from the laws of our country."

Would not the above be a good precedent for Washington?

Mrs. Joseph Leiter is in New York, at the Ambassador hotel.

Lane—Herron Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Mabel Audrey Herron, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Leroy Whitley Herron, to Mr. Rembrandt Lane, son of Mr. William H. Lane, of Sayre, Pa., took place last evening at 8:30 o'clock at St. Stephen's Episcopal church. The Rev. Dr. George Fisher Dudley performed the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a gown of white moire taffeta, simply made and trimmed with chiffon. Her veil, of Brussels lace, a family heirloom, fell over a veil of tulle and was held in place with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Virginia Herron was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a gown of orchid taffeta made with a tight bodice and full skirt and carried an old-fashioned bouquet. The bridesmaids were Miss Alice Cooke, Miss Margaret Hensey, Miss Leah De Moll and Miss Martha Boyle. Their dresses were made of tulle. Those of Miss Cooke and Miss Hensey were of blue taffeta, with tight bodice and full skirt, made short in front and long in the back, and with a high Elizabethan collar. The bridesmaids were trimmed in rose and the dresses were faced with rose around the bottom of the skirt. Miss De Moll and Miss Boyle wore gowns of rose tulle with blue lace. They carried bouquets in tones to match.

their gowns. All of the attendants wore wreaths of silver leaves in their hair.

Mr. Harold Cherry, of Philadelphia, was best man and the ushers were Mr. Herbert Byram, of Tarrytown, N. Y.; Mr. Frank Yates, Mr. Vance Farr and Mr. Herman Pritchard. A small reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. The house was decorated with palms and pink dahlias and roses.

Mrs. Herron, mother of the bride, wore a gown of electric blue georgette, trimmed with crystal beads. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Lane departed for a wedding trip, the latter wearing a two-piece dress of tan, trimmed with darker shades of brown, a small brown tam o'shanter hat and a tan tweed top coat with collar and cuffs of beaver. After November 1 they will be at home at the Ontario apartment.

Mallory—Chaffee Nuptials.

The marriage of Miss Alta Marie Chaffee, daughter of the reading clerk of the House of Representatives, and Mrs. Alfred T. Mallory, East Lynn, Mass., took place last evening at 8 o'clock at the Washington Methodist Episcopal church, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. William Hoffman, pastor of the church. The church was decorated with palms, ferns, roses, gladioli, dahlias and autumn leaves. Mrs. James S. Montgomery played the wedding march, and Miss Mabel Loftus sang. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white satin, with a tight bodice and bouffant skirt, with a wide band of tulle trimmed with orange blossoms around the bottom of the skirt, and a tulle yoke trimmed with orange blossoms. Her veil, of French illusion, was caught with orange blossoms, and held with a coronet of lace beaded in pearls. Her slippers were of white satin with tulle rosettes. She carried a handkerchief of hand-made lace, made by her grandmother, and a bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaids were dressed in gowns of georgette crepe and chintilly lace, made on straight lines, with lace yoke and drapery in the back from the right shoulder. Miss Agnes Eugenia Mallory, of Lynn, Mass., sister of the bridegroom, wore peach; Miss Grace Elise Cottrell, of Washington, green; Miss Florence Gertrude Poston, of Washington, yellow; Miss Elizabeth Lee Covington, of Baltimore, Md., orchid. They wore picture hats of tulle trimmed with lousine ribbon, and carried rose tines tied in ribbon the color of their gowns.

Eugenia Mildred Bailey, of Lynn, Mass., niece of the bridegroom, and Marjorie Hudson Stockett, of Lynn Village, Va., were flower girls. They were dressed in pink crepe de chine, with hemstitched capes and rosettes of pink and blue ribbons on the shoulders, and wore wreaths of pink and blue forget-me-nots in their hair. They carried gift baskets tied with pink ribbon.

Mr. Howard Mallory, of Youngstown, Ohio, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. William R. Miller, Mr. Delmar Domdera, Mr. Wilbur C. Grist, Mr. Mortimer D. Rathgeber, all of Washington.

A reception for the relatives and immediate friends of the bride and bridegroom at the home of the bride's parents immediately followed the ceremony. The bride's mother, Mrs. Chaffee, wore a gown of gray crepe, with cascades of chintilly lace and deep ruffles of chintilly lace on the sleeves. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Mallory departed for a wedding trip to Philadelphia and New York, the latter wearing a traveling costume of midnight blue brocade crepe, made with a drapery on the side, faced with gray. Her coat was of blue tulle, with a gray squirrel collar and heavy trimming on the sleeves of gray embroidery and beads. Her hat was of blue velvet, and she wore slippers of black moire and satin, with cut steel buckles. After November 1 they will be at home at 313 Twelfth street northeast.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Mallory, of Lynn, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. George T. Bailey and family, of Lynn; Miss Agnes Mallory, of Lynn; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mallory and son, of Youngstown, Ohio; Miss Elizabeth Covington, of Baltimore, Md.

QUART OF WATER A DAY HELPS KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers, Also Take a Little Salts.

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may miraculously act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure any one; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.—Adv.

LADY ASTOR DENOUNCES CRITICS OF PROHIBITION

Praises Queen Marie of Roumania as Woman With Greatest War Record.

DIFFERS WITH DEAN INGE

New York, Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—Lady Nancy Astor, American-born member of the British parliament, expressed her opinions on a variety of topics before sailing for England on the liner Aquitania today, almost a month after her husband and children had returned home.

Queen Marie of Roumania who is now on her way to this country, was characterized by Lady Astor as the woman who has the "greatest world war record."

"Do you know," she asked, "that during the war she went into leprous buildings, where all others were afraid to go, and where the dead were piled high and people were dying of disease? What she did is still amazing, but in all her writings she never spoke of those accomplishments. I know that if her record of war work were printed it would astonish America."

Regarding prohibition, of which she is a staunch supporter, Lady Astor said it was "nonsense" to maintain there is more drinking in the United States now than before prohibition. She denounced Americans who misrepresented the prohibition conditions of their country while visiting in England.

The recent prediction of Dean Inge, of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, that the British empire is due for a decline as a world power, is not to be taken seriously, Lady Astor said.

"I never pay much attention to him, nor do the English," she said. "I think he has a gloomy idea of God, and I think his God is gloomy."

Belgians Plan Loan To Restore the Franc

Brussels, Belgium, Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—The Belgian government under the dictatorial powers recently conferred upon it by parliament, is expected to announce shortly a plan for the stabilization of the Belgian franc.

This will include a foreign loan of from $50,000,000 to $60,000,000, of which New York will be expected to take at least half. The remainder will be distributed to London, Amsterdam, Berlin and Basle. No steps have been taken to negotiate such a loan, however, nor has the cabinet yet formally announced its decision.

Prussia Cuts Offer For Kaiser's Estates

Berlin, Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—The Prussian government has formulated a new offer for a compromise settlement with the Hohenzollerns which is much more favorable to the state than the previous proposed compromise, rejected by the diet.

Prussia now offers to pay the ex-kaiser's family $3,600,000 in cash in compensation for seizure of its estates, instead of $7,500,000, as hitherto.

Tinney Is Passing Crisis of His Illness

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—Frank Tinney, critically ill here, was "passing through the crisis tonight" after hovering at the brink of death during the day, his physician, Dr. Dretzka, said.

The comedian rallied tonight after two sinking days today, when recovery was despaired of, his physician said. His chances of weathering the crisis are now better than even.

Back Home

MISS FRANCES C. SILBERGLIED

Back home after vacation, every girl dislikes having a brown or freckled V above the line of her evening frock. # A Great New Oil

It clings to metal surfaces—"stays put"—not heavier, but has a greater factor of oiliness—new principle in motor lubrication

Ordinary oil tends to drop away from metal surfaces if long left standing, causing period of friction at each new start of motor.

New "Standard" Motor Oil of same weight and consistency possesses greater "factor of oiliness." It "stays put." Note larger, oilier drops.

HITHERTO when a motorist has given thought to engine lubrication, his chief concern has been to get the right weight or "grade" of oil for his particular car. If he took the climate into account, and filled up periodically with the right "grade," no more, he felt, could be asked.

Lubrication experts have long known the need for a different kind of oil—an "oilier" oil which, without being too heavy, would nevertheless cling permanently to metal surfaces instead of gradually draining off. They have long sought to perfect such an oil in order to prevent the damaging friction which otherwise takes place on cylinder walls when a motor is first started after a period of idleness. They have sought to prevent the loss of power; the unnecessarily high consumption of gas and oil; the crank-case dilution; the carbon formation and other evils of old type oils.

Over three years ago the Standard Oil chemists and engineers solved this problem and a new principle was developed in motor lubrication. Before announcing this discovery to the public it was decided to make exhaustive tests on many different types of cars and trucks in order to prove beyond a doubt the superiority of the new "Standard" Motor Oil over the old-style motor lubricants.

Road tests reveal remarkable facts

Hundreds of tests were instituted. The new "Standard" Motor Oil was tried out under all conditions of weather and in all kinds and conditions of cars. Identical routes with the same cars and drivers were covered over and over again, the only difference being the lubricating oil. Hill climbing efforts were timed and compared. Nothing was omitted which would add to the fairness and thoroughness of the tests.

The results were more far-reaching than was anticipated. At first the trials were solely lubrication tests to compare "breaking down" points. It was found that "Standard" Motor Oil stood up under a greatly increased friction load as compared with the best-known old-style oils and that even at this higher breaking down point its deterioration was slight.

The superiority of "Standard" Motor Oil was evident on hills, and in traffic a very low speed was possible in high gear—particularly noticeable on slight upgrades.

Experienced motorists surprised

Better piston seal with "Standard" Motor Oil led to an increase of 3% to 10% in power. Hill-climbing tests under identical conditions were all in favor of the new oil; as high as 33% improvement in speed at the hilltops was registered. Oil mileage increased 27%. Motors ran cooler and quieter. Less carbon was formed. Even gasoline mileage was improved from 3% to 12%.

Experienced motorists have expressed surprise that any lubricating oil could have produced so great an improvement in their cars. The time-tried veteran car especially shows remarkable effects when this oil is used as directed. "Standard" Motor Oil will be found on sale at all Standard Oil Service Stations and at dealers.

7 Advantages

found only in "Standard" Motor Oil

- 1 Constant lubrication—film on metal surfaces.
- 2 Frictionless operation, in a practical sense, even upon starting after idleness.
- 3 Less "breaking down" under load or at high speeds.
- 4 More miles per quart of oil and less crank-case dilution.
- 5 Better hill climbing and smoother operation in high gear at low speeds.
- 6 Negligible carbon, clean motor and clean spark-plugs.
- 7 Actual saving in gasoline, with or without carburetor adjustment.

CARBON

Remarkable demonstration when you drain out your oil

In addition to its other virtues, this new "Standard" Motor Oil is extremely effective in cleaning cylinder walls, piston heads and even spark plugs. Its black color after the first filling has been drawn off shows that it affects existing carbon. Drive 300 miles with the new oil—then drain your crank-case. Having dislodged this objectionable material you will want to get rid of it.

Second filling procedure

Having filled up the second time with "Standard" Motor Oil it is unnecessary to refill oftener than every 500 miles, or at your usual draining intervals. Needless to say, after the second filling, little or no carbon will form. If any deposit is made it can be easily removed.

Home Efficiency Service

Evidently contests are as much of a pleasure to the readers of our page as to the Housekeeper, for as early as this contributions begin to flock to the desk. And what an interesting contest this is to be. Teas are surely a pleasure, for there are a number of novel and splendid suggestions here already, and doubtless there will again be great difficulty in making a selection for first prize.

Your chance remark, Mrs. Kirk, has brought to mind the fact that molasses need not be the bugbear that you have termed it if the cup in which it is measured but be dipped in boiling water before the molasses is poured into it. Then it slips out very easily and you do not waste time while the proverbial slowness of molasses is demonstrated to you.

Let us return today to the long-absent menu and, of course, the usual Thursday fish dish that is the addition of the day. It so happens that at this time we have a number of recipes that have been sent to us for publication and, although we shall not work them into the menu, we shall give many of them today that they may be incorporated in the files and reserved for future use. But before we turn to this we have one answer—a short one—to give "through the column."

I do not know, O. L. M., that the answer will help as many as you felt. I believe that there may be some readers who, having upon them, unhappily, the period in which one mourns the loss of one dear to them, will derive some information as to mourning from your reply. Materials that are considered correct for mourning are the lustrous silks, crepe de chine, georgette, chiffon, grosgrain and even dull taffeta. Lace is not mourning, nor satin, for that material has a decided brilliance. We do not wear jewelry of any sort during a period of mourning and the plainer the costume, the deeper the effect of sincerity. Need I remind you that rouge and lipstick are not a part of the make-up of a person who has lost a dear one and wishes, by her garb, to retire from the foreground for a period of time and to

Rules of the Contest

First prize $5.00. Second prize $3.00. Five third prizes $1.00 each.

All contributions must be written on one side of a sheet of paper on which only the name and address of the contributor appears.

All contributions must consist of a menu for afternoon tea with the necessary recipes to construct the menu.

Contest closes midnight, Friday, October 15 and no entries received after the first mail Saturday, October 16, will be eligible. Announcement of winners will be made Saturday, October 23. Suggestions offered in contests automatically become the property of the Housekeeper. No contributions will be returned.

be conspicuous only in inconspicuousness? A study of mourning is not necessary, but in assisting your friend let her be as plain as possible, undoubtedly her grief will give her little time or inclination for frills, but you, in assisting her with the details, must bear in mind that the grief is not yours and that the least said about clothes, right or wrong, and the least attention paid to small details at this time, the better.

Here is our menu for the day.

Menu.

Cream of tomato soup.

Meat loaf.

Creamed potatoes.

String beans with garlic and bacon.

Lettuce salad with French dressing.

Toasted crackers.

Baked apples with cream.

Nut cakes.

Meat Loaf.

2 pounds of round steak ground.

1 two-inch square salt pork ground.

1 cup milk.

2 eggs.

1 teaspoonful salt.

Mix these ingredients thoroughly and make into a loaf. Butter a bread pan and bake for two hours in a moderate oven. Serve with tomato sauce garnished with chopped parsley or sprays. Tomato sauce is long since a recipe to be found in our files. If however the recipe is missing we shall be glad to forward this or any other recipe upon receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Salmon Loaf (For Friday).

- 1 can salmon.
- 1 tablespoonful melted butter.
- 1 cup bread crumbs.
- 3 eggs well beaten.
- 2-3 to 1 cup milk.

Mix these ingredients and put into buttered baking dish. Place baking dish in a larger pan of hot water and bake for an hour in a moderate oven. If one desires chopped green pepper may be added to the loaf. This dish may also be served with tomato sauce.

The remainder of the recipes required for the construction of the menu will be found in the files with, perhaps, the exception of the string beans prepared with garlic and bacon. This requires that two strips of bacon be cooked with the beans, also one clove of garlic. The garlic may be removed when the beans are ready to go to the table.

Mrs. Green's Sugar Cookies.

- 1/2 cup butter.
- 4 eggs.
- 2 cups sugar.
- 1 tablespoonful baking powder.

Flour enough to make it roll out. Sprinkle with sugar, roll lightly and cut in small cakes and bake until a light brown.

Nut Macaroons.

- 1 egg white.
  - 1 cup brown sugar.
  - 1 cup pecan nuts.
  - 1/2 teaspoonful salt.
- Beat the whites of the eggs until a stiff froth and add slowly while beating constantly the sugar. Fold in the nuts finely chopped and sprinkle with salt. Drop from the tip of a spoon one inch apart on a buttered sheet and bake in a moderate oven until brown.

Spiced Cookies.

- 1 quart flour.
  - 4 teaspoonfuls baking powder.
  - 1/2 teaspoonful salt.
  - 4 tablespoonfuls lard.
- Sift and dry ingredients together and rub in the lard. Add three cups of sugar, two teaspoonfuls spice powder, one teaspoonful grated ginger, three teaspoonfuls cinnamon and a half teaspoonful clove. Break three eggs into this mixture and blend thoroughly. Flour a board and knead the dough and roll three-eighths of an inch thick. Cut out and bake one-half hour in a moderate oven.

chase, she referred often to Lena as, "My little wood daughter," and again as "My little, daughter of the ship."

"I am delighted with Bud's choice," said Mrs. Stillman. "I had often wondered why Bud had not noticed this nice little girl. At last he woke up."

Delighted, Says Mother.

"When Mr. Stillman and I received a wire from Bud asking us to get him a ring for Lena I was a little surprised, but I was delighted. Mr. Stillman and I shopped for two days for this ring. "It is a beautiful jewel, but not more beautiful than Lena's wonderful character." An emerald and a diamond, each cut in a square, do twin duty in the making of the ring, and it took something like $25,000 in small change to adorn the engagement finger of the woodsman's daughter with this token of her selection to the ranks of the wealthy. The girl is going soon to New York to get some idea of what she must meet as the wife of the young Princeton student. She is also going to get some of that polish that is esteemed meet for those who tread on velvet carpets and under the stern surveillance of butlers to the manor born. She will winter with Bud's parents in their Park avenue mansion. "Mr. Stillman," continued Mrs. Stillman, "is as pleased with Bud's choice as I am. He said, when I told him of the wire: 'We will buy the nicest ring we can find.' He has not met Lena yet, but he will soon."

Among these personages were Aga Khan, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt and a number of other well-known persons from both the East and West.

To the surprise of every one, at least outside of the royal party itself, there came the announcement that Princess Beatrice, the queen's sister, had canceled her passage to the United States. Her secretary telephoned to the United States Lines from London merely informing them that the princess would not sail. No reason was given for the change in plans. The announcement, however, has led to a great deal of speculation.

Loss of Wife and Fish Drives Man to Suicide

Somerville, N. J., Oct. 6 (By A. P.)—The story of a man who was driven to suicide by the loss of his wife and a catch of fish was told tonight to Somerville authorities by Stanley Hearsark. He said he, Stanley Sabotka and a third man were fishing off a railroad bridge over the Raritan river tonight. After a good catch was made, the third man leaped up and ran away with all the fish.

The remaining two started for home. Hearsark said he reached the end of the bridge and looked back to see Sabotka in the path of a train.

In reply to his warning, Hearsark related, Sabotka sat down and shouted: "My wife left me, the fish are gone, so I might as well be gone myself."

Byrd to Fly Today On Guggenheim Trip

(By the Associated Press.) Commander Richard E. Byrd, first to fly across the north pole, will pilot his polar plane on the first stage of its nation-wide journey, which is to start from here today under the auspices of the Daniel Guggenheim fund and the Commerce Department.

It was at first announced that Commander Byrd would not participate, but an arrangement was announced yesterday whereby he will make the flight from Washington New York. Thereafter Floyd Bennett, who flew with Byrd over the pole, will be in charge. Forty cities of the United States will be visited to stimulate interest in commercial aviation.

Mrs. S. H. McLeary Wed to Lieut. Herron

Mrs. S. H. McLeary, widow of Maj. McLeary, was married here tonight to Lieut. Donald Green Herron, son of Maj. and Mrs. William H. Herron, of this city. Mrs. McLeary is the daughter of the late Maj. Lee Lipscomb, of Washington.

Maj. McLeary was en route by automobile from Washington to Fort Monrith in 1923, when he was murdered by two men to whom he had given a lift on the road.

WOMAN IS ARRESTED IN DEATH OF SOLDIER

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.) been missing from his post since Sunday, it was reported. Coroner B. H. Swain, of Arlington county, issued a certificate of suicide after viewing the body yesterday. Miller's associates were at a loss to understand why he should have taken his own life.

A board of investigation composed of officers attached at Fort Meyer convened yesterday to investigate the death of Miller when, it was learned, post surgeons were of the opinion that the bullet which killed the youth entered the back of his head.

Johnson said he was shot by two men who appeared suddenly from the side of the road and opened fire. Three of the bullets struck his motorcycle, he said, and the fourth lodged in his leg. Two shots went wild. After the shooting, Johnson asserted, the men, who appeared to be wearing khaki suits, disappeared.

Bishop Stresses Need Of Practical Religion

Need of a practical, living Christianity for the individual was stressed by Bishop James E. Freeman last night at the autumn meeting of the Laymen's Service Association of the Episcopal Church in the diocese of Washington, held in St. Alban's Guild hall.

Bishop Freeman, who came from Cleveland to attend the meeting, pointed out that the individual could not leave his Christianity to organizations and churches, but that it must be a practical, everyday thing in his life.

Wild Pig at Large Aboard Modern Ark

The old slogan of "pigs is pigs" found an echo yesterday aboard the City of Calcutta, which is bringing Dr. William M. Mann, superintendent of the Washington Zoo, and 200 crates of live animals from Africa to the United States.

Panic reigned temporarily on the vessel when a large warthog escaped, grunting, from its pen and ran amidships. It plunged into an open stoke hole, while the stokers fled. A second animal hunt started, led by Dr. Mann. Word of the escape was received here in a cabled from Dr. Mann.

New Poems by Omar Unearthed in India

London, Oct. 6 (By A. P.)—The discovery of previously unknown poems by Omar Khayyam is described in a dispatch to the Daily Express from Karachi, British India. The correspondent says workmen in digging for a foundation for a building at Sehwan, in the province of Sindh, unearthed a brass case containing manuscripts of many hitherto unknown quatrains written by Omar during his wanderings in Sindh.

The verses contain allusions to "the Median," a probable conqueror of Sindh, whose history is lost in antiquity. Omar, a Persian, died in the first quarter of the Twelfth century.

PEACHES' BILLS STILL POUR IN ON BROWNING

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.) The secretary said this information was contained in a telegram received at Browning's office. He did not say from whom the telegram was received. At the same time the secretary gave out the following statement in behalf of Browning:

"Mr. Edward W. Browning is still maintaining apartments at the Kew Gardens Inn (Long Island) for Mrs. Browning and himself. "Mr. Browning is still maintaining a city home for Mrs. Browning and himself at the Hotel Emerson."

This is the hotel where Browning has for the past few days been living alone. Throughout the day Browning, apparently anxious to learn the whereabouts of his wife, read the newspapers edition by edition as they were taken to his office by his chauffeur.

Chicago, Oct. 6 (By A. P.)—Rufus Lemaire, producer of a revue, expects "Peaches" Browning, New York Chinderella girl bride, to appear on the stage here, possibly next Monday. He has offered her a contract at $2,000 a week, the result of her separation from her elderly husband.

Differences over the contract are expected to be settled in New York, Friday. Her mother is opposing a contract for the run of the play, Lemaire's representatives said, and desires her appearance to be a short one.

"Peaches" would make seven appearances in "Lemaire's Affairs" in sketches.

Nancy Goes A-Shopping

1. We have been shopping again, and this time in a rather frivolous mood, for we noticed many odds and ends that, in another mood, might have seemed inconsequential. For one thing, there happened to be an open box on a counter that caught the shopping eye. It was about to be put back on the shelf when we spotted it and, frankly, it was the gorgeous array of color that the innocent looking box offered that held it on the counter while we took account of stock. String ties for the young lady of high-school age or the young matron who would a-goin' go. There were shades of brown, tan, green, blue, orange, buff, red, lemon and rose. They were clear hues, to warm the heart, and there were, as well, buried under the mass, polka dots of almost as wide a range of colors. Of pure silk, these ties are a decidedly good value at 75 cents. That they are not in this shop window is beyond me, for surely the flying leaves of autumn could not be more gorgeous in their colorings.

2. And, too, we discovered gloves for the lady of the house in case she has a birthday or even a hankering for apparel for the hands. Of lambskin in all the shades of gray and tan, as well as in black, the gloves are a special at $2.95. Also of excellent quality, and at the same counter, were washable suede gloves at $3.95. Having paid $5 for the seemingly same article, I was interested.

3. Who among us does not want an attractive box the contents thereof to offer powder for one's nose? There are dainty, small and exceedingly "neat" ones to be had at a local shop for 75 cents that are, in my opinion, attractive in an ordinary degree. They are of square design, with a tiny blocked rose cut in the corner for ornamentation, and fashioned of bronze metal. May I add that they are reliable and well worth inspection.

4. And last, but not least—flow-ers for the buttonhole or the fur that one wears about the neck at this time of the year. These flowers offer an innovation in colors, being more delicate and unusual than the commonplace boutonniere to which we have become accustomed. There is a wide range for selection, and last year's fur can not but renew its enthusiasm for this winter's activity if adorned with one of these trivialities.

King of the Kitchen!

Housewives eagerly accept this new "king of the kitchen"—electricity!

At his regal touch their tasks are lightened. With automatic precision he cooks without being watched. Washing dishes at your command transmitted through the push-of-a-button—and drying them thoroughly, too, are all in the day's work for him. With ready adaptability he can toast, roast, bake, boil, broil, simmer or stew—as you direct. Unlike most cooks, he has not the slightest objection to extending his services to other parts of the house—to clean, wash, sew, iron and even entertain you!

The cost of maintaining this monarch is savingly slight to you. Provide plenty of outlets for him as well as appliances in which he can function for you. The services of this "king of the kitchen" are yours to command any time or any day or night—through

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Why Be Miserable?

DEAR MISS M'DONALD: Your advice to others has made me write and beg of you to please advise me and I will be grateful to you the rest of my life. The story would be too long, so I will tell the important things. I am 50 years old. Have three sons, the oldest married with two small children and trying to buy a home. He wants me to live with him. I am no expense to him and help all I can financially and physically. I never look for any pay for what I do. They use my things—silver, bedding, blankets, linens, without charge. I never refuse to do anything I can for the pleasure of all and yet the wife does not want me in the house. Can you advise me? I hate to pay rent when I know my son needs the money. Please tell me what to do. I love my son and he loves me but I feel like I am in his wife's way. I am anxiously waiting your reply.

"MISERABLE."

Since you have two other sons, why must you have your home with the married one? Why have you not a home of your own? My advice must always be that mothers and their daughters-in-law keep apart. You have silver, linens, all that is needed for a home, so have a home. Rent enough rooms to pay your rent. You will work no harder for your tenants than you now work for your daughter-in-law and your reward will be considerably greater! You are young, you know. Women of 50 today do not retire to the chimney corner and hope for the crumbs from younger women's tables. They go in and win success for themselves. I know one woman of 55 whose husband and married son were both killed in an accident a year ago. She had no resources, and the daughter-in-law was a helpless type with three small children. That woman of 55 has just chucked 15 years from her age through her sudden activities. All she had was furniture and grandchildren. She moved to a larger house while all her friends stood by and called her crazy. Then she rented four rooms and began to serve meals. She has two houses now and 21 boarders! As I see her "stepping out" to the theaters in the evening I feel like giving three rousing cheers for the woman that she never dreamed she was—until adversity came upon her.

Why can not you in a small way follow her example and make for yourself a home and a life of your own?

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON

MONEY affects good manners, and bad, in more ways than you would suppose. People who have always lived in an atmosphere where the moderate possession of it has meant cultivated tastes and accepted responsibilities do not think of money much as money. Indeed, they don't think of it much at all when they have always been accustomed to easy circumstances. They buy comfort, they buy beautiful objects, because comfort and beautiful objects are pleasant, not because they have "invested capital" in them. They travel because they love travel, and money, of course, makes travel easier; but they don't regard it as a reason for display. They give because they think they should give, not because it gratifies any pride of purse. They haven't any such pride.

But take the man who has made money and values it as money, who likes things for what they have cost, who measures success by his bank account, and you have a man whose mind and manners are cursed with the Midean talent. Did you ever read about Midas? He was given the power of turning everything he touched to gold. If he smelled a flower it lost its flower color and perfume, and became metal. If he picked an apple it was worth its own weight in a jiffy. If he turned the pages of a book, golden leaves filled the volume forever after. You would have pitied that man as you saw all the sweet, natural, homely things of the earth growing stiffly precious under his fingers. Finally his little daughter changed into a dazzling statue before his eyes, the very hairs of her head like spun gold. And somehow after that the spell was broken, I've forgotten how, and he gradually came back to normal conditions, very glad to be spared fortune at such a price.

That's what any of us who happen to be wanting riches must remember. You pay a price for them if you're not careful. I know one very rich woman who was so used to the thought that she would do anything because she was rich that her very kindness of heart became offensive. If she had a charming thought it got killed. I've known her to bring a lovely bunch of roses to a comparatively poor acquaintance who'd asked her to luncheon—roses in a fine glass bowl. And as she carried them in she said, "My dear, I was sure you couldn't have any table flowers, so I told them to take these right out of my drawing room; the vase, too, so you'd be sure to have something to put them in."

Now, don't you see how thoughtful as this gift might be, the speech was dusted with lady-bountiful gold? It implied in one sentence, first, that flowers were essential to a lady's table; second, that this lady couldn't provide them; third, that, not being used to having flowers, she naturally had nothing to put them in, and, fourth, that Mrs. Midas had directed the Midean servants to fill the deficiency. Suppose she had brought her gift and said nothing but, "These looked so lovely I hoped you'd like them," they were arranged.

Wouldn't it have been prettier manners?

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

UNIVERSAL BEAUTY.

Beauty wanders here and there scattering her treasures rare. Finding many a hidden place To enrich with tender grace, Hill and valley, field and lane Hear the rustling of her train.

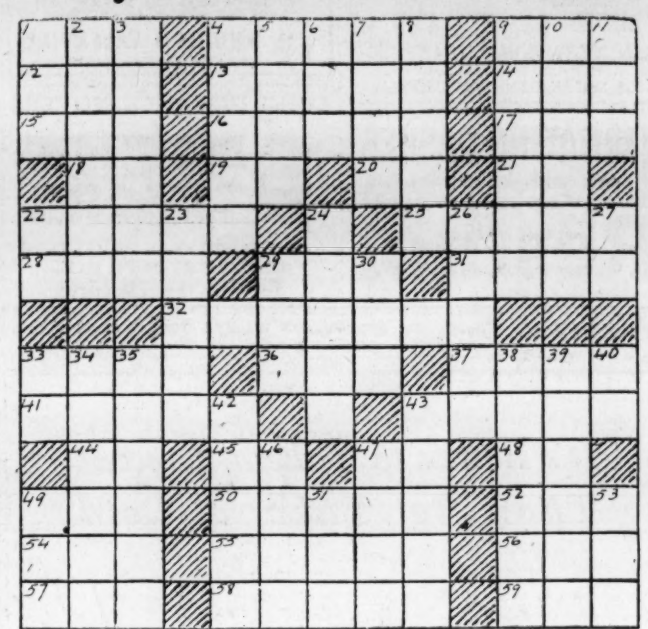

Artists paint her now and then. Sometimes line which poets pen. Carry something of her voice, That the wide world may rejoice, But her magic is revealed By the daisy in the field.

Now she lingers by a tree, Lights a vessel far at sea. Tints a hill-top, sets the moon Shimmering on a lake in June. Spills her lovely tears at dawn Just to glorify a lawn.

Never place so dim and far But above it shines a star. Never man so sordid quite But finds something of delight Something in this world which he Thrills with happiness to see.

BEAUTY AND YOU

By VIOLA PARIS

STRENGTHENING WEAK ARCHES.

FOR arches that are not definitely broken down, but are merely weak, so that walking or standing any length of time becomes uncomfortable, the following easy exercises have proven invaluable.

In the first exercise, the starting position of the foot is about 5 inches off the floor. Turn the foot up so that the heel points toward the floor and the toes upward. In this position, curl or clench the toes tightly, then, with toes still curled, point the foot downward, straining hard to keep the toes still as long as they will remain that way. Relax and repeat until the foot is tired; then change to the opposite foot. This is a popular exercise among dancers, since it also relieves the weariness of hard-worked feet.

The next exercise is given by dancing masters for their pupils to practice at home. Both the arches and the ankles benefit by this movement; in fact, students of toe dancing must practice it for a week or more before they are allowed to put on their first pair of toe slippers.

Tomorrow Viola Paris will have something to say on the subject of walking.

Men of Paris Like Colored Cigarettes

Paris, Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—Cigarettes of dainty color, for years an affectation of feminine smokers who shop in Fifth avenue, Bond street and the Rue de la Paix, have captivated the male of the species in France.

Not long ago, as an experiment, the State tobacco monopoly began wrapping its higher-priced cigarettes in paper of various hues—coral, amethyst and emerald. They have proven so popular that the monopoly intends to adopt other colors, and even to issue one assorted package under the name of "rainbow."

The ordinary cheaper French cigarette will remain what it has long been—neither a thing of beauty nor a joy.

Silhouette Features Fall Evening Frocks

(By the Associated Press.)

Evening frocks are so varied this autumn that it is difficult to classify them. The main distinction made by Bond street is one of silhouette. There is the frock that hangs straight, except when the wearer moves, and there is the definite picture gown. The straight frocks are often draped, either to one side or to the middle of the figure, the gathered folds hanging a few inches below the rest of the hem, while the slim skirt is slashed to disclose a finely pleated underslip. These frocks are of knee length, and the picture frocks as long as short as the wearer pleases.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. W. A. EVANS

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations and where a stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such service can not be answered.

TESTS FOR ASTHMA.
JUST at this season no form of asthma except hay fever catches and holds attention. From now until frost comes every asthmatic will assume that ragweed pollen or some other pollen is responsible for his trouble.

It is well to remember, even in September, that there are other forms of asthma, and that hay fever, troublesome though it be, is one of the least serious of the group.

In the first place, there are the asthmas due to heart, kidney, and lung disease—the asthmas due to organic disease. There are the asthmas due to poisons. The hay fevers belong in this group. Besides the pollen asthmas, called hay fever, there are asthmas due to food proteins, animal hair, feathers, and dandruff, oris root asthma, house dust asthma, and perhaps still others of this class.

Another important group is known as the bronchial asthmas. These are associated with bronchitis and they are due to proteins from bacteria.

Dr. Chandler Walker says that if a person is past 40 years when he develops asthma for the first time, his age of itself would come near ruling out hay fever, food protein asthma, and practically all other possibilities except organic asthmas and bacterial asthma.

Since bacterial asthma may develop for the time during the hay fever season, it is well to know that if there is itching of the eyes, a thin, watery nasal secretion and no cough and sputum, or little cough, and a little grayish white jellylike sputum, the probability is that the attack is hay fever.

In bacterial asthma the eyes do not itch, the nose secretion is thick, cough is very troublesome and there is plenty of thick sputum.

But the best way to diagnose between these various kinds of asthma is to make skin tests with pollens, bacteria and whatever else there is any reason to suspect of being the cause. In many cases skin tests are not necessary because examination of the heart, kidneys or lungs shows the kind of asthma.

Dr. G. T. Brown, of Washington, is one of those physicians who has spent time in studying bacterial asthmas. His method is to make cultures from the sputum and also from the nose and to make skin tests with these cultures. The bacteria which give a positive skin test are used as vaccines to cure the asthma.

When the organic asthmas and the pollen asthmas and the asthmas due to foods, fur, dandruff, feathers and other sensitizing substances have been eliminated, about half the cases left can be cured and four-fifths of the remainder can be greatly benefited by the proper use of bacterial vaccines.

SUN IS OF SERVICE.

L. A. T. writes:

1. Is sun considered a cure for hip joint disease?
2. Is it as effective as artificial light?
3. Is there any medicine that can be taken internally?
4. Is creosote of any value?

REPLY.

1. Yes. It is not a perfect cure, nor the only one, but it is of great service in the treatment of that disease.
2. The best of the artificial lights is better than a poor grade of sunlight.
3. Probably cod liver oil is of value if it does not upset the stomach.
4. Probably not.

CLEANING VACUUM BOTTLE.

O. L. B. writes: I was interested in your article, "Milk in a Vacuum Bottle," because I have had occasion to travel with young babies and have always carried the milk in a vacuum bottle. But I would like to add a suggestion that I am sure many mothers will be delighted to hear about. You know, it is very often difficult to get the vacuum bottle clean and free from odor. To do this I use potassium permanganate, which I consider an invaluable household disinfectant and deodorant. One advantage of permanganate is that after it has done its work you can tell if there is any left in the bottle by its color.

REPLY.

Permanganate of potassium solution is an excellent cleaning agent. If a little of it finds its way into the milk no harm is done.
I presume you chill the milk and put it in the bottle cold. Milk chilled and put in a clean, cold bottle will keep in good condition long enough to feed a baby traveling from New York to Los Angeles.

Art Dealers Renting Fine Works to Movies

New York, Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—The demand for authentic detail in modern motion picture production has opened a new source of revenue for art dealers who are now renting fine paintings for use as wall decorations in elaborate movie sets.

The companies are charged 1 per cent of the valuation of the picture per week. An original Sir Peter Lely, Portrait of a lady, was valued at $5,000 and rented at $50 a week. One company has rented a Rembrandt painted from a Blakelock landscape, Raeburn and Metting portraits and what was represented to be a Frans Hals. The latter rented for $65.

Plan Now for Garden Changes

DEAR JIMMY: I suppose you and Peg are beginning to realize now that no garden is ever finished—that one never reaches the point of being able to sit back and, looking out across the lawn or flower borders, say, "There never was a better garden than this one when you actually got to work next November or March. And what ever you do, try to cultivate the ability to imagine effects before they are accomplished, to visualize—if you don't mind my using a word that has been horribly overdone by morose writers of advertising copy!—Maybe all this sounds a trifle difficult, not to say intangible. But you and Peg have brains, Jimmy, and I know that you'll find it not only feasible, but darned interesting. Good luck!

Advise Women

to adopt new hygienic method and retain freshness this way; true protection; discards like tissue

LARGELY on medical advice, women are abandoning the old-time "sanitary pad" for a new way that supplants uncertainty with positive protection. Sheer frocks and ill-timed social engagements no longer remain as worries. Lost days are fewer, and health better.

It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of the old-time sanitary pad. Five times as absorbent. And odorless—ends ALL fear of offending.

As easily disposed of as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment. You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitation.

Costs only a few cents. Eight in 10 better class women employ it. Proves the risk of old ways.

Same Cook 30 Years Is Record of Briand

Paris, Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—Premier Briand has retained his cook over a period of 30 years. On each of his twelve sojourns in various ministries, M. Briand took the faithful cook along with him. She enjoys a high reputation among the diplomats and statesmen who attend banquets given at the Quai d'Orsay and has become such an important person that she was recently interviewed.

"Monsieur Briand may be in the right place at the foreign affairs," she volunteered, "but I would hate to have him go to the finances."

"Why," asked the interviewer. "He never checks up my own accounts," she replied.

The companies are charged 1 per cent of the valuation of the picture per week. An original Sir Peter Lely, Portrait of a lady, was valued at $5,000 and rented at $50 a week. ## MODISH MITZI

There's something almost military about Mitzi this morning, thinks the Goofer as he sees her from afar. Which is just the effect Mitzi wishes to achieve by the gold braid trimming on her dress. There's enough gold braid on her hat alone to make her a generalissimo or an admiral.

Military Trimmings Captains a Style or Two

There's no missing it. Mitzi is deriving inspiration for her fall clothes from the army or navy. The Goofer wonders which. The narrow, upstanding collar is braid bound and the very tailored buttoning of her dress on the shoulder proclaims a "uniform" effect. The hat has gold buttons on the brim.

By Jay V. Jay

"I sort of fell in love with him," admits Mitzi. "He's so distinguished. I wonder if it is the gold braid, the medals or the mustache?" (The Goofer wonders about the mustache. He might try it.) "Anyway," continues Mitzi, "military trimmings are fashionable, and I'm going to wear 'em."

BUSINESS LEADERS ARE DIVIDED ON SIZE OF TAX CUT WANTED

Some Urge Corporation Rate of 10; Others Are Content
With 12½ Per Cent.

$175,000,000 EXCESS
FOUND OVER ESTIMATE

Proposed Brief Bill, It Is Believed, Could Easily Pass
in Short Session.

By WILLIAM P. HELM, Jr.
Sentiment among the business men advocating an early tax cut is divided, apparently, as to the wisdom of the size of the cut they should ask for. While President Wilson of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association and his allies are conducting a vigorous rapid-fire campaign for a reduction to 10 per cent (the present corporation rate being 13½ per cent) some of the other business leaders are not yet prepared to ask Congress for a reduction of those proportions.

Among the latter is the industrial group of which James A. Emery of the National Association of Manufacturers is chairman. This group is still considering the cut and is to meet again in Washington, probably within a week, to form a definite conclusion and shape its program which is incidental to tax reform. At the last meeting of the group, held in Washington about two weeks ago, members were unanimously in favor of advocating a cut at the next session of Congress but the size of the proposed cut was the subject of varying opinion.

Some of the members were in accord with the proposal that the rate should be cut from 13½ to 10 per cent. Others felt that the cut asked at the next session should be from 13½ to 12½ per cent, the latter having been the rate until Congress changed it last winter.

Congress Planted Plea.
That change, an increase of 1 per cent, was made in response to a general plea by corporate interests that the capital stock tax be abolished. Congress listened with favor to this plea, but asked how the Treasury would be able to make up the $90,000,000 annually collected through the operation of the stock tax. It was willing to abolish the bothersome stock tax which was quite an imposition, many corporation heads felt—if it could do so without loss to the Treasury of the revenue involved.

As a result, there was spawned the idea of increasing the corporation rate sufficiently to make good the $90,000,000 rebated by lifting the stock tax. To that the corporate interests agreed. The rate was consequently raised 1 per cent and the stock tax abolished.

All went well until recently when the government published the returns for 1925-1926. They showed that during the fiscal year ended June 30 last the bureau of internal revenue collected more than $109,400,000 in corporation taxes, the highest amount since 1920. That sum was far above the original estimate, indeed, it exceeded by about $175,000,000 the sum collected under the corporation rate during the preceding fiscal year.

Done With Reluctance.
Among the corporate interests who agreed to the raise in the rate to 13½ per cent was a group who did so reluctantly, believing that the government could well afford to lift the capital stock tax without compensating increase in the corporation rate. That group now, in the light of the latest returns, is becoming somewhat voluble in its protestations that the corporation rate was needlessly raised and that it should be put back immediately to its former level of 12½ per cent.

That idea has taken fairly firm root in the Emery committee. Its advocates on the committee feel that tax reduction should start at that point as a matter of simple justice to the nation's corporations. They feel strongly on the subject and do not wish to complicate the case by asking, at the outset, for more than a restoration of the old rate. They would make two bites of the cherry which Mr. Wilson and his associates regard as a single mouthful.

Such, at least, was the feeling at the last meeting. No definite program for furthering an early tax cut was worked out at that meeting, though the desirability of such a cut was unanimously favored. Doubtless the whole subject will be thrashed out to a unanimous conclusion at the next meeting and the advocates of a 1 per cent reduction and those advocating a 3½ per cent reduction will adjust their differences of opinion as to what should be done at the next session and work in harmony.

Some Want Full Cut.

The proposal that Congress be asked simply to restore the old rate of 12½ per cent provokes no hilarity among the interests who have worked for months on the program calling for a 3½ per cent reduction. These interests want the full cut. Their plan calls for the passage by Congress of a simple resolution or bill, devoid of the usual voluminous phrasing, by which the cut could be effected. Such a measure would call for no unusual or protracted debate or discussion, its advocates argue, such as attended the clause-by-clause consideration of the recent revenue bills.

Time presses. The next session of Congress will have but three months, to a day, in which to function. It must pass the appropriation bill and there are hundreds of left-over measures. At the last session, many of which will call for considerable oratory. A lengthy revenue bill, it is feared, would be fatal to the early tax-cut program. There would not be time to pass it. But no such obstacle lies in the pathway of a short and simply worded measure affecting but a single change in an otherwise complex and complicated law.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR DRILL TEAMS COMPETE TODAY

Parade of 500 Men Will Precede Field Day Exercises at Ellipse.

ARMY OFFICERS JUDGES

The annual competitive drills of the Knights Templar of the District will be held on the Ellipse today, following a parade down Pennsylvania avenue from the Masonic temple at Thirteenth street and New York avenue.

About 500 Knights Templar are expected to participate in the parade and the drill. The body will leave the Masonic temple at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon, and will march down Thirteenth street to Pennsylvania avenue, and thence to the Ellipse. The exercises will begin immediately upon arrival. Drill teams representing the six Washington commanderies will compete. The first thing on program is the review by the grand commandery. The drill teams, which are composed of 24 men, will then march in competition. The performance will be judged by three army officers.

The parade will be led by Robert L. Middleton, grand commander, and officers of the grand commandery. Fifteen past grand commanders will also march. The winning drill team will be presented with badges in acknowledgment of proficiency. The drill last year was won by Columbia commandery, No. 2. For two years the award for the largest field day attendance has gone to Brightwood commandery, No. 6. Should this commandery win again today, it will receive a silver loving cup from the grand commandery. The exercises will continue until about 4:30 o'clock.

RUTH AND HIS APPLE KNOCKER WIN FOR YANKEES; HUGGINS, JUBILANT, WILL START PENNOCK TODAY

SPIRIT OF CARDINALS NOW BROKEN, YANKS' MANAGER DECLARES

Ruth Like Happy Child After Three Homers. Hornsby Blames Poor Pitching and Will Use Either Alexander or Sherdel Next.

ST LOUIS, Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—There were no moans and groans seeping under the door of the Yankee's dressing room after today's victory. Instead, there was much hilarity and back-slapping, with Babe Ruth hugely enjoying the whacks on his shoulders.

Miller Huggins, the Yankees' leader, broke down and confessed that he made a perfectly sensible prediction yesterday to the effect that when the Yanks started hitting, things would be different.

As the Yanks collected 14 hits today, within one of the total they managed to collect in the three previous games, Huggins considers that his prediction was absolutely right.

Furthermore, he feels the lacing at the start of the fourth inning and walked four and was touched for a two-bagger before he was yanked.

"The only thing I can say is to admit that it was a badly pitched game," Hornsby explained. "Reinhart usually has wonderful control. Something was wrong with him in there today. He didn't have a thing."

"The Cardinals played good ball otherwise. We were on even terms with the Yankees in hitting. In fielding we were sharper. It was a tough break for Douthit and Hafey to come together. I consider our club lucky that both of them were not seriously hurt."

"That licking we got won't disturb us. We are hardened to defeats, and are not discouraged. Didn't Cincinnati knock us out of the league leadership right at the end of the season and didn't we come back."

"Well, we'll come back tomorrow. I expect to pitch Alexander, or Sherdel. Alexander came through for us last Sunday. He also put us back in the race after Cincinnati stopped us, and beat the Reds after resting only three days."

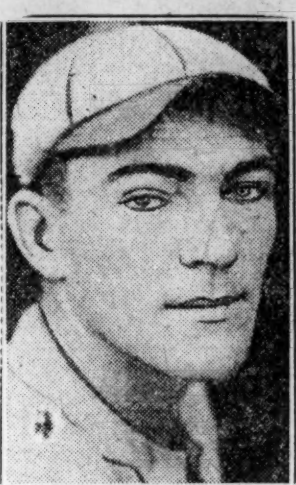

Buell, O'Day Battle At Indian Spring Stag

Members of the Indian Spring club are looking forward to a fine boxing program which will feature "stag" night tomorrow night. Twenty-two rounds of mauling are scheduled, with Eddie Buell and Terry O'Day mixing in the six-round headliner. They will meet at 122 pounds.

Four four-round preliminaries are on the program, as follows: Joe Black vs. Joe Filla, Eddie Desinen vs. Johnny Gauza, Frank DeAngelo vs. Louis Goldberg, and Eddie Healey vs. Joe Piscatella. Ted Mitchell, C. U. boxing coach, will referee.

Hornsby had no excuse to offer except to say that it was a badly pitched ball game. He was re-

LEADING HITTER OF SERIES AND HURLERS WHO STARTED FOURTH GAME

FLINT RHEM.

RHEM STARTS WELL BUT WEAKENS

Card Hurler Bumped Soon After Start of Contest.

(By the Associated Press.) SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Oct. 6.—Rhem started off like a house afire in the first inning, but was touched himself by the flames before it was over. After striking out Combs and Koenig, the Cardinal yielded Ruth's first homer, then walked Meusel. Gehrig followed with a single, but "Lanky Bob" was caught at the plate for the third out.

Urban Shocker was rushed out to the bull pen when the Cardinals greeted Hoyt with three successive singles in the first inning, but was back in the race after Cincinnati had clattered across. He struck out Hafey, with runners on second and third.

Ruth's first homer and Lazzeri's long double in the second broke the spell on the Yankee long-range guns. They were the first extra-base blows delivered by the New Yorkers in four games. Lazzeri's two-bagger hit the bleacher wall in far left center and was within a few feet of being a home run.

The Yankee economy program was in full flight in the fifth inning when four runs were scored on one hit. Reinhart and Herman Bell, the two Cardinal pitchers on the hill in this session, issued five passes, while Bell contributed a balk. The entire Yankee team came to bat and the scorers were groggy.

When Douthit and Hafey collided going after Dugan's fly in the fourth inning both to the count. Apparently they were none the worse for the accident, however, for Douthit came right back to throw out a runner at the plate on the next play, while Hafey rapped out a base hit on his turn at bat a few minutes later.

Cubs Win, 4-1; Series Goes to Seventh Game

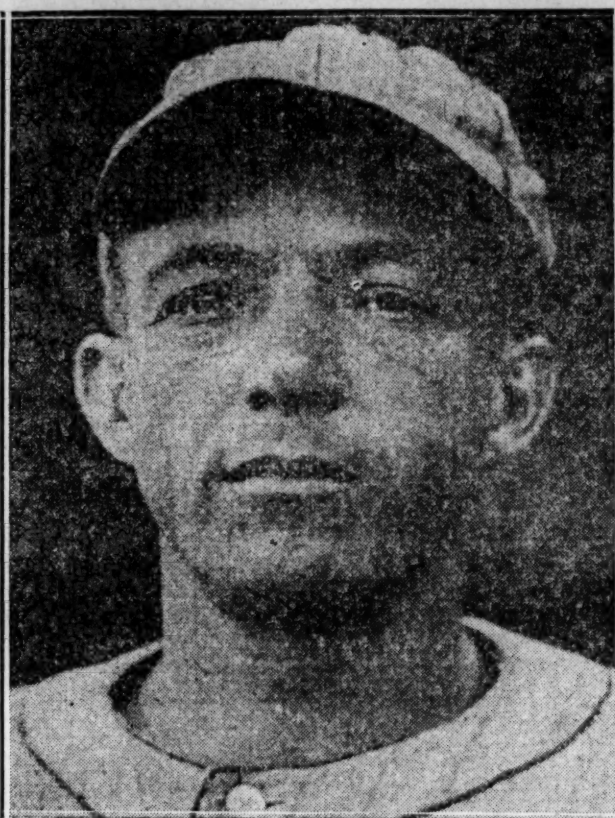

Chicago, Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—The Cubs won today's game of the Chicago city series from the White Sox, 4 to 1, making necessary a seventh game, which will be played tomorrow to decide the title.

The White Sox sent their hurling ace, Ted Lyons, to the mound, but the Cubs took kindly to his offerings and scored four runs before M. Thomas relieved him.

The chubby right fielder of the Cardinals has proven the most consistent hitter of the series with an average of .500 amassed from eight hits, one a home run in sixteen times at bat. Flint Rhem yesterday was the victim of Ruth's first two circuit clouts. Hoyt was hit freely yesterday but was effective in the pinches.

Hitting of Ruth Governs All Yanks, McGraw Says

By JOHN J. MCGRAW, Manager, New York Giants.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 6.—By making a lucky pick in naming Waite Hoyt to pitch the fourth game, Miller Huggins has evened up the count and once more it looks like a dead heat. The Cardinals have a slight advantage in being able to come back with Bill Sherdel and Alexander in the next two games, while the Yanks must win with Penneck.

Huggins took a long chance in holding back Penneck another day so as to give him the amount of rest he always needs. He will go in fresh and the club will back him up with extra confidence since his hitters at last have begun to hammer the ball.

PLAYERS GET RECORD SHARE

World's Series Pool Larger Than Any Previous One.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—As world series records were broken right and left today, the players of the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees were assured that another record will be broken when they receive their reward.

If the players' portion of the world series pool is divided into 25 parts, the winning players will get $6,254.65, while on the same basis the losers will receive $4,129.76. The players themselves fix the division of their spoils. There may be more than 25 shares.

THE players' share of the receipts, limited to the first four games, amounts to $372,300.51. Seventy per cent of this goes to the world's series contenders, divided on a 50-50 basis, with the other 50 per cent split among players on clubs finishing second, third and fourth in the rival pennant races.

Of the world's series teams share, $156,366.21 goes to the winning team and $104,244.14 to the losers. The largest individual player shares before the record-breaking 1924 series was in 1923, when the first four games of the series between the Yankees and Giants drew $368,783.04, each winning Yankee getting $6,143.49, and each losing Giant $4,112.59.

With the series deadlocked, the players still have a considerable financial interest in the game, despite the fact that they are not "in" on future receipts. The difference between the winners and losers' end will be more than $2,200.

PEGLER SEES "BABE" WAVE OAR AND SEND 3 BALLS OUT OF LOT

All Pitches Within Broad Jump Distance of Bambino Leap Out of Park—Hornsby Convinced After Third Homer.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 6.—Babe Ruth reached out with his apple knocker in today's game of the world series and every time one of the Cardinal pitchers laid the baseball within a running broad jump of where he stood, the Babe just slapped that lively fruit clear out of the property and jogged around the bases for a home run.

Three times they threw in earnest to the Babe and three times that hickory whacker came driving through the air that is used principally hereabouts to blow through horns on the streets at night and drove the ball into territory where finders is keepers.

It will get you nothing to ask where the Babe has been all this time since the world series began with music and marching and ostentation in New York last Saturday.

Nobody knows why he doesn't hit home runs when he doesn't, and when he does hit them, all is excitement as at the present moment, and the rest of the Yankees go in for hitting in a fairly big way themselves.

So when Ruth made only two hits that barely were hits at all in the first three ball games his associate Yankees hit in proportion and when he began waving his oar today and the baseballs began to leap over the outfield walls, the rest of the ball club took a hand, so consequently the Yankees won a very flexible, not to say very rotten, ball game from the Cardinals, 10 to 5, and evened the series at two games apiece, which means that the boys will have to break holds Thursday night and resume their rassing on Saturday in New York.

THERE were about 38,000 citizens, all that Sportsman's park will hold, gathered about today's performance, including the usual delegations of gendarmes, soldiery, aristocracy and so forth, and they made a great deal of noise at times, yelling, "Woo!" and "Yea!" and all such sounds that crowds utter in the mass.

But they also produced a strange, scandalous sound that grew into a roar like fast trains running over a trestle when Babe Ruth went flailing back to his place in left field with his hands sticking out of his flask pocket and his hands up to his head adjusting his sun goggles after the Yankees' half of the sixth inning.

The Babe had just hit his third home run, scoring his fourth run of the day and driving in Earl Combs before him, and the bleacher customers behind the Babe's station were up on their feet, yelling in full voice to greet him. The

Mr. Hornsby, the Cardinals manager, seemed unconvinced that the Babe had really begun to do his stuff and he personally authorized Rhem to pitch square to him again in the third. Hornsby walked in to Rhem as the Babe arrived at the plate and they had words of contention were up on their feet, yelling in full voice to greet him. The

BLONDIN AND ACROSTIC WIN AT LAUREL FOR WHITNEY

Son of John Outrun in Stretch

Bean Saddles Winner of Sixth in Wandering Minstrel.

Coltletti, Gold Coin, Outrides Johnson to Take Opener.

Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Oct. 6. H. P. Whitney's colors scored a double here this afternoon when Blondin and Acroscopic, both saddled by James Rowe, Jr., carried the famous eton blue and brown cap to victory in the Copley handicap and Pocomoke purse, respectively. Sarazen's withdrawal robbed the Copley of much of its interest. With the Vanderbilt gelding out, Son of John was made a prohibitive favorite. He flattered his backers in the early stages by taking the lead and setting the pace under slight restraint to the long pole. McAttee, who had been trailing of the leaders with Blondin, then made his effort, and coming to the outside he caught Son of John inside the furlong pole.

FROM there home the Whitney colt began drawing away, and at the finish he led Son of John by two lengths. The latter was four lengths in front of Son Ami.

Showers, which fell during the night, made the track muddy and gave mudders an opportunity to show their merits. Scratches were numerous, and small fields faced the barrier in most of the contests.

The 6-W Beams Wandering Minstrel, favorite, was an easy winner of the J. Furley claimer for 2-year-olds, sixth on the program. It marked the second winner to be saddled by J. P. Smith during the afternoon.

The son of The Wanderer-Savilla made good in convincing fashion by taking the lead at the rise of the barrier, raced well in hand throughout, winning, eased up, by four lengths. Polymelion Day was second, two lengths in front of Titina.

All three placed horses were well played in the machines. Whitney's Acroscopic received but scant support for his chance in the running of the Pocomoke, and upset the talent when he was returned the winner in a drive by slightly better than a length. All Gone, with Fawell up, accounted for the place just a nose in front of Cross Fire, while the choice of the contest, Bumpkin, finished fourth.

Peterbell had the mount on the Whitney starter and, keeping off the pace until reaching the half-mile mark, made his move on the inside and drove to within a length of the leaders making the turn for home.

HERE he was bothered slightly, but Peterbell insisted on getting through and succeeded in doing so as the field straightened away for home and was going away under pressure.

Following the running Fawell was called into the stand to explain his crossing over sharply on his field. The son of the Wanderer-Savilla scored a hollow victory in the third number, a dash over the three-quarters route for which he was installed a top-heavy choice. At no stage did he give his backers any concern as to his ability to negotiate the sticky footing. Sprinting into a lead of two lengths going down the backstretch he increased it at will and at the end was six lengths in the van of China, who attempted to keep up with the winner, but found his margin over the third horse was a good two lengths.

Galatia, racing back to her previous good races and installed the choice for the mile and one-sixteenth of the second made good when she led her field throughout to withstand a drive in game fashion and scored by a scant head over Parmachenee Belle. The latter was kept close to the turn for home, while Galatia enjoyed a five-length lead at one stage of the journey.

This lead dwindled fast the last part of the race, but Taylor was forced to give his best to make her last-long enough. Papa Blinks came to grief rounding the lower turn when Fawell attempted to take him out of the race with the result the horse slipped in the footing and the rider was unseated.

The initial number resulted in a close finish in which the Sagamore stable's Gold Coin emerged victorious, while Colletti, riding in desperate fashion, rode hard on the winner and put it over him when it came to a drive.

Ruth Leads in Homers,
Total Bases, Runs
Scored, &c.

Huggins' Team Passes
Giants for Game
Total Base Lead.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6 (By A. P.).—Seven new world's series records were put on the books tonight by statisticians, who found the going as tough in today's game as did the Cardinal pitching corps.

Babe Ruth personally accounted for six of the new marks, as follows:

1. Most homers for one game, three, breaking former mark of 2, held jointly by Harry Hooper, of the Red Sox; Benny Kauff, of the Giants; and Ruth.
2. Most homers, total series, 7, breaking old record of six, set by Goose Goslin in 1924, and 1925. Ruth hit one homer in 1921 and three in 1923.
3. Most total bases in one game, twelve, breaking mark of nine, set up by Hooper in 1915.
4. Most extra bases, one game, nine, breaking former record of six, held jointly by Ruth, Kauff and Hooper.
5. Most runs, one game, four, breaking record, first made by Mike Donlin with Giants in 1905 and equaled by many others.
6. Most extra bases, total series, 27, breaking Ruth's own previous mark of 18.

The seventh and final record for one club's total bases in a single game was set by the Yankees, whose 14 hits totaled 28 bases, eclipsing the mark of 27, made by the Giants in 1921.

Soccer League Teams
Divided Into Sections

The executive committee of the Washington Soccer league agreed last night to divide the teams of the loop into two sections and to play a championship series at the end of the season. Walcotts, British Embassy, Monroe, German-American Reserves, Fort Myer and German Americans will play in one section and Marlboro, Rockville, Army Medical Center, Clan MacClellan, Rosedale and Concord in the other.

Due to late orders, members of H. M. S. Calcutta will not be able to play the proposed game here with a picked team from the Washington Soccer league next Sunday. Efforts are being made to bring the team here October 17.

K. P. Bowling League
In Inaugural Tonight

The Knights of Pythias bowling league will open its season tonight at the Coliseum at 8 p. m. Grand Chancellor Lee B. Emery and other officials will roll the balls which start the circuit on its long grind.

Tonight's program calls for the teams to oppose each other as follows: Columbia No. 1 vs. Capital, Calanthe No. 2 vs. Webster No. 1, Webster No. 2 vs. Columbia No. 2, Hermione vs. Calanthe No. 2.

SENATORS VS. CARLYLES

The Senators, averaging between 100 and 115 pounds, will meet the strong Carlyle gridmen on the Monument lot Saturday afternoon.

NORTHERNS DRILL TONIGHT

Coach April requests all Northern players to report to him tonight on the Park View playgrounds at 7:30 o'clock. All of last year's players are back with the Northern team with the exception of Birtman, who is out of the city. The Northerners are in the field for games in the 150-pound class. Manager Ormet, can be reached at Adams 3809.

WORK OF EAGLE PREPS.

The Anacostia Eagles Prep will practice tonight at 7 o'clock at Fourteenth street and Good Hope road southeast. Due to the cancellation of the Parks A. C. the Birds have arranged a game with the Friendship A. C. for Sunday to be played on the Anacostia Park field at 3 o'clock. Team booking games, call Manager Peacock, Lincoln 4366.

REID ASKS CITIZENS TO AIR THEIR VIEWS BEFORE HOUSE BODY

Wants Neighborhood and Trade Groups to Give Ideas on District.

CHAMBER HEAD INVITED TO APPEAR AT CAPITOL

Looks to Outside Aid in Thrashing Out Problems of City.

Representatives of the citizens associations, trade bodies and other civic organizations were invited yesterday by Representative Frank R. Reid, of Illinois, to appear before the House District subcommittee Monday to give their views on District affairs.

Probably the largest number of citizens ever to be called upon for such a purpose were invited yesterday. Among those to whom invitations were sent were M. A. Leese, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce; R. W. Darr, vice president; J. Harry Cunningham, president of the Board of Trade; Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, department commander of the American Legion; Julius I. Peyer, former commander and now president of the District Public School association; Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter, president of the District of Columbia Congress of Parent-Teacher Associations; A. B. Henderson, chairman of the zoning committee, Federation of Citizens Associations, and Jesse C. Suter, chairman of the Citizens Advisory Council.

Plans Thorough Airing.

It is Reid's plan to have a thorough thrashing out of District problems and he wants suggestions, grievances, advice and whatnot from those most vitally interested.

The meeting will be held in the House caucus room at 11 a. m. Reid was authorized by the subcommittee at its recent organization meeting to call a meeting for Monday. Just how many members will be present is not known. The remarks of those who appear will be taken down by a shorthand reporter and transcribed for the benefit of all the members of the committee.

As many sessions as are necessary for all those desiring to be heard will be held.

Four Divorce Suits Dismissed by Court

Justice Bailey in equity court yesterday dismissed four divorce cases for want of prosecution. They were the annulment petition filed by Harry Berg against Louise Berg on August 22, 1924; the absolute divorce petition filed by Mrs. Mary E. Baker against Abram J. Baker on August 15, 1923; the absolute divorce petition filed by Mrs. Beale Keith against Ernest Keith on June 28, 1924; and the limited divorce petition filed by Mrs. Sarah Miles against John Miles on May 4, 1922.

Mrs. Elsie Montague withdrew her petition for absolute divorce filed on October 8, 1923, against Gratton W. Montague. Mrs. Louise F. Hensley, who sued her husband, Raymond C. Hensley, for a limited divorce on July 18, 1924, withdrew her bill.

Capt. Harris to Talk To Congregationalists

"Why I Am a Catholic" will be the subject of an address by Capt. J. P. Harris, historian of the national Catholic welfare conference at the first of a series of special Thursday night services at 8 o'clock tonight in the Mount Pleasant Congregational church, 1410 Columbia road northwest.

The series will be featured by addresses on a wide variety of subjects by prominent clergymen and laymen. The last service will be held December 20.

Arguments Heard in Reeves Appeal

The appeal of Ralph D. Reeves from his conviction and sentence of two and a half years in prison was argued yesterday in the court of appeals. Assistant District Attorney Leo A. Rover, appeared for the government, while Attorneys Caruso & Beall appeared for Reeves.

The latter was alleged to have hypothecated a note for $3,825 on November 29, 1922, belonging to the Reeves Guaranty Co. while he was president of that concern.

Bottles Basis of Suit.

The Washington Coca-Cola Bottling Works was sued yesterday in circuit court by William Chevis who conducts a restaurant at 601 P street northwest, for $100,000 damages for alleged slander. Through Attorney James Conlon, it is alleged that on August 12 last the plaintiff was unjustly accused by employees of the defendant concern of appropriating to his own use two cases of empty bottles.

Damage Suit Withdrawn.

Regina Ross, 1319 Nineteenth street northwest, who sued Harry Schmitt for $19,000 damages for alleged personal injuries, withdrew her suit yesterday in circuit court through Attorney J. William Tomlinson. The plaintiff charged that she had been struck by Schmitt's automobile on March 10.

Change of Name Asked.

Mary Tashka, 453 M street northwest, petitioned the equity court yesterday for permission to change her name to Mary Tashka. She charged that her husband deserted her.

11-Year-Old Girl Demands Judgment

Gladys Pritchard, aged 11, of 310 Varum street northwest, who sued Preston Sisk, aged 9, of 322 Varum street northwest for $10,000 damages for alleged personal injuries, filed a motion yesterday in circuit court for judgment against Preston because of his alleged failure to file a plea to her declaration.

The suit is the result of a clinker alleged to have been thrown by Preston at Gladys, which she says struck her in the eye. The matter will come before the court on October 22. Attorneys Wood & Nutt appeared for Gladys.

CHEMISTS' CONVENTION BEGINS SESSIONS TODAY

H. W. Gillett to Lead Symposium on Use of Materials in Extreme Conditions.

TO HOLD DINNER TONIGHT

Several hundred chemists will gather this morning at the Washington hotel for the convention of the American Electrochemical Society, which will continue through Saturday.

The electro-chemists will discuss a wide range of subjects, and problems of importance to industry. Among these are metals able to resist high temperatures and corrosion, the melting of pure metals, and the fixation of nitrogen, matters which have never been satisfactorily solved.

SMOKE SCREEN CASE GOES TO GRAND JURY

Harry Sweet, of Baltimore, Gets 90-Day Jail Sentence on Liquor Charge.

Harry Sweet, alias Jack Snell, 25 years old, of Baltimore, Md., yesterday was held for action of the grand jury in $2,000 bond on a charge of operating a smoke screen equipped automobile, and was fined $300, in default of which he will serve 90 days in jail, on a charge of transporting intoxicating liquor.

The youth was captured after a thrilling chase through blinding smoke and ammonia fumes by internal revenue agents near Potomac, Va. The chase began in Southern Maryland and continued through the District to the Virginia town, where the automobile was captured after its gasoline tank had been pierced by a bullet.

New City in 10 Years Predicted by Moore

"Washington is always the new Washington," declared Dr. Charles Moore, chairman of the Fine Arts commission. In an address before the Oldest Inhabitants' association yesterday evening in the old engine house at Nineteenth and H streets northwest, "Every now and then it renews its youth."

"In ten years there will be an absolutely new Washington," Dr. Moore asserted. "New edifices will take the places of the one on the Mall and other places. Dr. Moore declared that this is a city for government establishments and not for commercial ones."

Virginia Divorce Questioned in Suit

Mrs. Blanche E. Smith, 921 Nineteenth street northwest, filed suit in equity court yesterday to have her marriage of December 28, 1923, annulled on the ground that Smith, under the name of Schmitt, had not been divorced from his first wife, Olive Schmitt, at that time.

Through Attorneys Hawken & Havell it is alleged that Smith was divorced in Virginia by Olive Schmitt on December 24, 1923, and that he thereafter failed to wait the six months as required by the Virginia laws before remarrying.

Receivers Want Bacon.

Kenneth C. Ross and Hilleary G. Hoskinson, receivers for the Old Dutch Market, Inc., petitioned the equity court yesterday for authority to sue Wilson & Co., meat packers, for the alleged refusal of the latter to return 2,000 pounds of bacon which was sent to the meat packers to be smoked. It is alleged that the act of Wilson & Co. in using the bacon as an offset against their alleged claims against the Old Dutch Market is improper.

Wife Charges Desertion.

Mrs. Virginia Darrow, Cathedral Mansions apartment, wife of Commander Robert T. Darrow, U. S. N., filed suit against him today in the equity division of the District of Columbia Supreme court for maintenance and support. She charges that her husband deserted her.

COMMITTEE WANTS SPEEDY REBUILDING OF CITY RIVER FRONT

Cites Crumbling Docks in a Supplemental Note to the Commissioners.

RETAINING WALL WÉAK, R. M. BRENNAN REPORTS

Declares It Is Uneconomical to Repair Ancient Wharves.

The District wharf committee added a supplemental report yesterday to its annual report submitted to the commissioners several weeks ago, urging that Congress speed up rehabilitation of the Potomac river waterfront. The report said:

"Several failures of waterfront structures have occurred during the year, due solely to the fact that the structures are very old. Other failures may be expected from time to time and it is hoped permanent development of the waterfront may be initiated at a very early date."

Roland M. Brennan, chief clerk of the engineering department and chairman of the wharf committee, supplemented the report by saying the last session of Congress authorized the chief of engineers' office of the War Department to make a survey of the waterfront.

"It is understood the final report of this survey is ready," he said, and will be submitted to the chief of engineers about October 15. Col. Bell has expressed the hope that a public hearing will be held on the report.

Circuit Court Cites Tax Appeals Board

The board of tax appeals was cited yesterday by Justice Frederick L. Siddons in circuit court to appear October 15 to show cause why it should not adhere to one of its own decisions affecting the income tax return of James S. McCandless, past imperial potentate of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, of Honolulu, for the year 1921.

Mr. McCandless says that on November 26, 1925, a division of the board, sitting at San Francisco and Los Angeles, decided to allow him to deduct losses sustained in the sale of certain stocks. Under the laws creating the board and defining its powers, the decision automatically becomes final 30 days after rendition. Notwithstanding the laws, Mr. McCandless says, the board reversed itself on April 23, last.

Year Jail Sentence On Shooting Charge

Carroll T. Elgin, former elevator starter in an office building at Eleventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, who drank some bad whisky on April 26 last and smacked with a pistol, was sentenced to serve a year and a day in prison yesterday by Justice Hitz in criminal court.

One of Elgin's bullets struck Mrs. Mary May, of Wilmington, Del., as she was emerging from the Raleigh hotel. The accused first fired at Charles A. Pepper, a taxi driver, and later got into a taxi driven by Henry G. Bahr and forced Bahr to commission. The taxi was caught in a traffic jam at Fourteenth and E streets northwest and Elgin was arrested.

Engineers to View Tests of Ordnance

A large group of engineers and executives of industry will witness a spectacular demonstration of post-war ordnance developments at Aberdeen proving ground, Maryland, tomorrow. Demonstrations will include firing of latest anti-aircraft equipment of the army and practically all calibers of seacoast, field artillery and infantry weapons.

The occasion will be the eighth annual meeting of the Army Ordnance association, of which Benedict Crowell, Cleveland, former assistant Secretary of War and director of munitions during the world war, is president.

Police Report 7,120 Arrests in September

Arrests for all offenses, reported by the police for September, totaled 7,120, according to statistics made public yesterday. As previously reported, 2,558 of these were for traffic violations. There were arrests for 318 felonies.

Violations of the Volstead act caused 418 arrests, and 1,255 were summoned to court under the Sheppard law. Police seized 2,080 gallons of liquor, 3,300 gallons of mash, and 14 stills were seized.

Taxicab Owner Sued.

Horton G. Thompson and his wife, Mrs. Louise G. ## MUSICIAN LABORED WITH DOCTOR TO AID TUBERCULOSIS WAR

Noted Violinist Found Lung's Normal Breathing Note Was Low A.

WORK BROUGHT ON NEW PLAN FOR DIAGNOSING

Dr. Lyman Urges Sanatoriums as Schools to Point Way to Live.

A new method for aiding physicians in diagnosing tuberculosis in its early stages, in devising which music cooperated with medicine, was described by Dr. Friedrich von Muller, of the University of Munich, one of the ablest physicians in the world, before the convention of the National Tuberculosis association yesterday in the Mayflower hotel.

The chief problem in devising this method, which purposes to chart the various sounds of the chest in order to obtain greater accuracy in comparing chest sounds with X-ray pictures, was to fix the base note of the healthy lung, for, as Dr. Muller explained, the physical components of the respiratory sounds of the normal lung were extremely difficult to establish. In order to establish this normal base note, Dr. Muller obtained the assistance of one of the greatest German musicians, the violinist, Adolph Busch, whose finely attuned ear discerned that the normal breathing corresponded to low A with 108 vibrations.

Chart Note Vibrations.

After establishing the healthy base note and its vibration, the next step was to chart the vibrations of other notes, ordinarily heard by physicians by means of stethoscopes. Mechanical means were devised to record the various sounds without any consideration of the human equation such as marked the old method. By the mechanical means the sounds were registered on graphs, thus placing the vibrations on an ink and paper basis.

The diagnosis of tuberculosis in its early stages is one of the greatest problems in the fight against the disease.

Use of the 700 tuberculosis sanatoriums in the United States as training schools for patients instead of merely as first class boarding houses was advocated yesterday by Dr. David R. Lyman, medical director of the Gaylord Farm sanatorium, Connecticut, in an address before the delegates.

Dr. Lyman declared patients should be shown how to live correctly and should be examined thoroughly for the discovery of other physical defects, many of which are brought on by the white plague.
